3 fired San Dimas planners bring suit against city

By MAE TATE
PB Staff Writer

The San Dimas City Council and Planning Commission have been issued subponeas to appear in Los Angeles Superior Court in a suit by three fired planning commissioners.

In suing the city for firing them March 22, Clyde Bartman, Gerald Klein and Robert Sturrock said they were not on a "witch hunt, but are merely trying to set things right."

Planning Commission Chairman Don Haefer was served the papers on behalf of the commission Monday night and City Clerk Barbara Henderson was presented the papers on behalf of the council today.

The three men were fired on a 3-2 vote of the council with Mayor Marvin Ersher and Councilmen Terry Dipple and Philip Wax supporting the termination and Councilmen Jim Lough and Jim McLean dissenting. In preparing the resolution for the firing, Wax charged the three with violation of the public trust in approving a building permit for A-Z Transfer Co.

A possibile suit is also being considered by the A-Z Transfer Co. owners, who were eventually denied their permit by the council.

The three commissioners said they all felt that the council had acted illegally in terminating them, and that their attorney, Stephen C. Jones of La Verne, agreed. Jones prepared the petition and writ of mandate, asking that the court order the council majority to show cause that the commissioners' removal was legal.

If the courts decide the terminations were not legal, the three men want the city to be instructed by court order to reinstate them in their positions on the Planning Commission.

The new commissioners appointed by the council — Jim Butler, James Clampett and Nicholas Martocchio — have been named "real parties in interest" in the suit. If the dismissed three win the suit, the new commissioners must be removed.

The new commissioners are expected to be sworn in Wednesday night.

"It just seems to me that what they're doing is underhanded and not in keeping with the history and tradition of the city," said Bartman.

"Maybe we don't have to worry about this. But I do, because I think it's important. We'll let the courts decide. If nothing else, we're letting them know we're concerned with what's happening. We're also letting the people know we're concerned."

In explaining the decision to file the suit in downtown Los Angeles Superior Court, attorney Jones said that he wanted to remove the decision from local judges who may be politically affiliated with or sympathetic to the council.

"We want to get a judge who has no familiarity with the concerned parties," Jones said.

When contacted for comment, Mayor Ersher said "Since the matter is under litigation, it would be improper for me to comment at this time. It will be a matter for the attorneys to answer in court. Legal counsel for the city will handle this and the matter will be adjudicated in this manner.

"It is a policy of the City Council when matters are under legal consideration not to comment in public on them," Ersher said.

Father arrested after 3 tots, bound babysitter taken from home blaze

ANAHEIM (AP) — Three small children and their bound and gagged babysitter were carried choking from their burning home, and the children's father was booked for investigation of attempted murder, police said.

By the time firemen arrived at the home Monday night, the smoke was so thick they had to use breathing equipment to enter the burning house. Inside they found the live-in babysitter, Bonnie Kay Branson, 26, tied up on the floor. She had been hit over the head, firemen said.

The three children, Timmie Sue Nadelberg, 4; Ronnie Lee Nadelberg, 3; and Abraham Levi Nadelberg, 22 months, were found in a nearby bedroom.

The four were rushed to Anaheim Memorial Hospital for treatment of smoke inhalation. They were later released.

The children's mother was away at the time of the fire, police said. She and the children's father, Ronald Irwin Nadelberg, 31, were separated, they said.

Nadelberg showed up at the scene of the fire after the victims had been rescued. He was questioned, then arrested and booked for investigation of arson and assault with intent to commit murder, officers said.

TAKES STRIKE IN STRIDE

Incident in Germany

GI steals howitzer, points it at house

ANSBACH, West Germany (AP) — A U.S. soldier, angered at his German landlady, stole an Army cannon and pointed it at her house, an Army spokesman said today.

The landlady and 19 other residents fled the building as the big self-propelled 175mm howitzer rolled to a halt outside. "But no shot was fired because the gun wasn't loaded," a German newspaper reported from the north Bavarian town.

The Army identified the driver as Spec. 4 Jonathion Robinson, 24, of Memphis, Tenn., who is normally assigned as a gunner on the tracked weapon. He was taken into custody by military police at the scene.

According to the spokesman, Robinson took the howitzer from a guarded motor pool early last Thursday, smashed through barriers on the post and tore up streets and a park while en route to the apartment.

Military police were waiting for the cannon at its destination, and Robinson promptly followed their orders to open the hatch, the spokesman said.

He was charged with misappropriating a government vehicle, driving while intoxicated and destroying government and civilian property worth $2,500.

The spokesman reported that Robinson took the vehicle after an argument with his landlady but said details were not clear.

The German newspaper account said the woman had confiscated Robinson's tape recorder and phonograph from the apartment after he refused to pay a rental fee of $600.

TOTAL DESTRUCTION

A bomb explosion early today gutted the Dixie Liquor Store and a cocktail lounge in Jacksonville, Fla. The powerful blast blew windows and store fronts out in a one-block radius. Glass and debris covered Main Street. The blast touched off a fire which burned out of control for more than three hours.

Connally feels Ford trailing in Texas

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford is trailing Ronald Reagan in their contest for Texas' delegates to the Republican National Convention, former Texas Gov. John Connally feels.

But Connally told reporters at a GOP fund-raiser in Austin, Tex., Monday night that the vote could swing either way in the closing days before Texas' May 1 primary.

If 10 per cent of Texas' Republicans change their minds in the last three days, it could alter the outcome, predicted Connally, who also promised to tell Texans before May 1 why he has remained neutral. His influence, Connally said, has been "grossly exaggerated."

Local and state GOP officials honored Connally at a $50-a-plate dinner. The former Democrat told the crowd of 500 that he felt like former President Nixon must have felt when he got off the plane recently in Peking — "It's nice to be back among friends."

President Ford told a group of newspaper editors in the White House Monday that Reagan was "absolutely irresponsible" for advocating an end to the current Panama Canal negotiations.

There was no immediate response from Reagan, who did not campaign Monday. Reagan, who has been hammering away against Ford's defense policies, has charged that the negotiations will lead to a surrender of America's control over the Canal Zone.

Democratic presidential candidate Sen. Henry Jackson of Washington told supporters in a Woodbridge, Conn., synagogue Monday night, "I want to see American foreign policy committed to human rights."

7 booked after shots, crash foil area heist

More than $100,000 in stolen men's slacks were recovered early today in Industry when a stakeout by sheriff's deputies ended with one deputy blowing out a van's tire with a shotgun and the vehicle slamming into a tree.

The action occurred outside the Hang Ten Corp. at 17031 Green Drive shortly after 5 a.m. where deputies said they managed to halt two rented trucks and a pickup. Seven men were arrested and booked on suspicion of burglary.

Deputies gave this account:

Sunday they were given information that someone planned to burglarize the clothing manufacturing plant. They began watching the place at 7 p.m. and were there all night. At 5 a.m. the two trucks and the pickup began driving from the plant. The deputies blocked the streets as the three vehicles sped off in different directions.

One driver attempted to run down a deputy and the officer fired a shot at him with his service revolver. Another deputy fired a blast from a shotgun when the driver of the other truck refused to halt. That shot hit a tire, sending the truck out of control and into the tree. It overturned, spilling out a load of trousers.

More than 50,000 pairs of men's slacks were recovered from the trucks, deputies said. The estimate of their value ranged from $100,000 to $300,000.

Inside the pickup truck, deputies said they found electronic equipment, including a radio capable of monitoring the sheriff's radio band in the Industry area.

Those arrested were Santo Sciacca, 42, Simi; David Graca, 21, Van Nuys; Stewart Sher, 21 and his brother, David, 20, Sepulveda; Larry Burger, 36, Canoga Park; Scott Ayon, 23, La Puente; and a 17-year-old Van Nuys youth.

Detectives this morning were looking into the possibility that one of the suspects was an employe at the plant.

No one was injured in the incident.

Close call

Bomb blast rips complex as 2 policemen approach

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — A bomb exploded in a business complex early today, demolishing a liquor store-lounge and a dance club, authorities said. There were no injuries.

"This was a very complete explosion," police spokesman Mike Gould said. "It totally blew the whole building apart. The roof was raised and fell back into the hole where the building used to be.

He estimated damage at $100,000.

Gould said two officers, responding to a report of an open door at the complex, were approaching the building when the explosion occurred. They were about 30 feet away and were not injured, he said.

It was the second explosion in four days at a liquor store owned by National Liquor Co., authorities said. A small dynamite bomb exploded Saturday morning at a store about a mile from today's blast. The company has six stores in this north Florida city.

"There have been no contacts with, or threats against, the firm," Gould said. "We have absolutely no motive why the chain was hit twice."

Gould said the device was set off by an electrical device located about a half-block from the complex. The type of explosive used in today's bomb had not been determined, officials said.

Witnesses said the blast was heard about five miles away. It knocked out windows in 15 nearby buildings

East still sweltering

Tornado injures 11

By The Associated Press

Eleven persons were injured when a tornado struck Brownwood, Tex., in a post-Easter patchwork of weather that brought sweltering temperatures to the East and twisters and thunderstorms to some other sections.

One twister wrecked three houses near a pecan orchard in Brownwood Monday night and injured 11 persons, requiring hospitalization for nine of them. The tornado also did $1 milllion damage to the central Texas city's municipal airport, officials said.

Meanwhile, it appeared that the East Coast was getting some relief from a hot spell that had sent temperatures into the 90s on Sunday and Monday. However, the National Weather Service said temperatures would remain unseasonably warm in the region.

New York City cooled from a high of 92 degrees Monday to a midmorning reading of 80 degrees today.

While New England and Mid-Atlantic states were hot, sunny Miami had a high of only 75 Monday.

The National Severe Storms Center in Kansas City said there was a possibility of severe thunderstorms with large hail and damaging winds today in westerrn and northern Louisiana and a small portion of extreme southeast Texas.

The weather service reported more than 30 tornadoes in Texas, Arkansas and Louisiana Monday night and into today.

At Minot, N.D., the Souris River, swollen to 6.5 feet above flood level, rose slightly with three-quarters of an inch of rain on Monday.

Weather

Fair and slightly cooler today and Wednesday. High today 76, low tonight 50, high Wednesday 73. The high Monday was 81 and the overnight low was 51. Wednesday's sunrise 5:13, sunset 6:27.

Chaffey board unresponsive to plea for full school day

By PHYLLIS CANNON
PB Staff Writer

A thick sheaf of petitions bearing 1,300 signatures and urging a return to the six-period day and a 220-unit graduation requirement failed to move the Chaffey school board Monday night.

The petitions were presented by Bill Bertino, chairman of a citizen committee, who said the signatures had been obtained in the past two weeks.

"Our number one concern is the classroom environment. Children cannot learn if they are not in the classroom. We're asking you to reconsider the decision you have already made."

After a 90-minute discussion during which seven individuals addressed the board, no action was taken, leaving the board action of March 15 in force. That was to offer a "modified" six-period day next year by reinstating 48 per cent of the full six-period program and bring back 38 fulltime teachers at a cost of $499,200.

Along with the "modified" program, the board increased graduation requirments from 200 to 210 semester hours effective with the class of 1977. The cuts were made following failure of a tax override election last year.

Board president G. A. Chalfant explained that not all students will take the sixth period and the the top priority should be on giving each student a quality education. He said to determine what is a quality education is "of foremost importance."

A Competency Task Force will be organized April 21 at 2:30 p.m. in Hill Auditorium on the Chaffey High School campus in Ontario, charged with determining proficiency levels for high school graduation, and what the district should offer to insure students reaching those levels.

Chalfant said that community representatives, parents, students, teachers, counselors and administrators will serve on that committee, which is to be chaired by Ula Bauers, a teacher in the district.

Maudeane Weil, president of the West San Bernardino County Federation of Teachers (AFL-CIO), a labor unit to which some certificated employes in the district belong, voiced concern over the fact the board was being asked to approve, without discussion, a change in the title of business manager.

Business manager Mike D. Dirksen, who becomes superintendent July 1 when Allan G. Smith retires, said he had contacted board members individually seeking approval for the title change to assistant superintendent of business because the title would attract more qualified people to the job, which now is being advertised nationally.

"I took it upon myself to ask the board members and to advertise for the position under the new title. It would have been a public item when a person was selected," said Dirksen.

Chalfant said he was asked for an opinion and he gave it. He said he did not know Dirksen had asked other board members the same question. "I feel we need the very best person guiding our business management we can find," he said. "I don't want to let a title stand in the way."

Mrs. Weil charged the board with violating the spirit of the Brown Act by not bringing the matter up in open board meeting before advertising the position under the assistant superintendent title.

In other actions, the board:

—Agreed to spend an estimated $20,000 to reconstruct the autoshop compound at Alta Loma High School.

—Granted sabbatical leave for 1976-77 to Mrs. Jean Gillingwators, Anthony Lehman, Edwin H. Norene and Mrs. Margaret E. Woodruff.

—Adopted a policy statement which prohibits sex discrimination and commits the district to providing equal opportunities for both sexes in all programs and activities and to all applicants, in compliance with Title IX of the Education Amendments of 1972. It directs inquiries regarding the implementation of Title IX in the district to Robert J. Spencer, assistant superintendent, 211 W. Fifth St., Ontario 91762.

—Set Tuesday, May 4, as the date for the next regular board meeting, the day the board legally may take action on petitions presented by labor units asking to be named as exclusive bargaining agents for employe groups under new state collective bargaining laws.

Doctor gets choice: jail . . . or clinic

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A physician given a choice of going to jail or donating his time as a plastic surgeon has opted for the latter.

Dr. Fred Berkowitz, faced with a 90-day jail term, chose instead Monday to serve an equal amount of time working at a community clinic.

Municipal Court Judge George W. Trammell III gave Berkowitz the choice, plus placing him on three years probation.

Berkowitz, 52, had been convicted on two counts of allowing the unlicensed practice of medicine at a Marina del Rey weight reducing clinic he operated, and on two counts of prescribing drugs without a prior physical examination. The misdemeanor offenses occurred last May 4, authorities said.

Berkowitz' main office is in Anaheim.

Lloyd cites potent military wallop of Russia in talk here

By JACK BURSON
PB Staff Writer

The Soviets would out-kill United States forces in the first stages of a nuclear war, Rep. Jim Lloyd, D-35th Dist., said Monday.

Soviet forces also would penetrate so deeply into the continent of Europe with conventional forces that the United States would be faced with the decision of whether to respond with nuclear weapons or try to stop the Russians with conventional weapons, he said.

"I'd hate to make that decision," Lloyd said.

The congressman made his assessments at a press conference at General Dynamics Pomona where reporters were outnumbered by military brass.

Lloyd said he was disturbed by the fact that the United States was spending "horrendous" sums of money on defense when so many other economic problems faced the nation. But he said there appeared to be no alternative in view of the world situation.

But the U.S. military is in a commanding position due expressly to the quality of its technology, he said. He cited U.S. military aircraft which are so advanced that the Soviets are unable to respond.

General Dynamics Pomona is in good shape, Lloyd said, and should continue at its present strength indefinitely. At one time the plant reached an employment figure of 8,700, but since then has ebbed to about half that number.

Lloyd came out in support of the B-1 bomber, a Mach-two airplane currently under testing at Edwards Air Force Base in the California desert.

He also supported the sale of U.S. fighter aircraft, of the most advanced design, to foreign countries, especially Israel. His theory is that without the technology of this country, foreign countries cannot support such aircraft and must rely on the United States. This leads to other financial inroads by this country, he said.

Lloyd made his assessments following a four-day, three-state inspection of the multi-billion dollar military weapons industry systems. He is a member of the House Armed Services Committee. Chief among his complaints was the duplication of military programs among the Army, Navy and Marines.

Bilingual program pushed for Pomona

Pomona school board members, when they meet tonight at 7:30 in the City Council chambers, will be asked to approve the hiring of a bilingual-bicultural education program expediter as soon as possible.

The expediter's duties, school officials say, would be to assist in the development and implementation of a kindergarten through 12th grade program for children in Pomona's public schools who are limited or non-English-speaking.

Mary Montes, elected board president April 6, began her presidency by calling the board's attention to the Lau vs. Nichols Supreme Court decision, which says that children in public schools must be taught in the language of the home, and the state policy on services to limited English-speaking students.

There was some discussion on this at the April 6 meeting. "Board members do need to be acquainted with the law," Mrs. Montes said.

While nearly 25 per cent of the students in Pomona's public schools are Spanish surnamed, and a fairly large group are non or limited English-speaking, Spanish is not the only language where bilingual staff is needed to meet the requirements of the court decision and comply with state policy. The district now serves about 135 Vietnamese children, plus fewer numbers of Indians and Oriental children.

Along with hiring the bilingual expediter, the district will be asked to "make a concerted effort to comply with the letter and spirit of the Lau vs. Nichols decision (a San Francisco case won by a Chinese father against the school district) and the state board policy."

This same item calls for the administration to intensify and complete by the end of this school year an effort now underway to identify the language status of limited-English speaking students, and to have ready for implementation by September the first phase of the kindergarten through 12th grade program for them.

O-M budget shows no tax boost

The board of trustees of the Ontario-Montclair School District at an adjourned meeting Monday took under study the district's $18,822,031 budget for 1976-77.

The preliminary budget, based on estimated reserves at the end of the current school year and projections of income next year, does not include salary raises for teachers or other employes except for the annual incremental increases.

The budget, as proposed, does not call for any increase in the tax rate of $2.82 per $100 assessed valuation. The district will have an additional $232,369 in restricted funds for earthquake safety, workmen's compensation and loan payment.

In his budget analysis, deputy Supt. George Duerr said, "This gives us a picture of where we stand today, but it is subject to numerous changes as additional information comes in. We'll be refining some of our estimates as we gather more data showing more accurately where we will stand at the end of the year."

The budge is an increase of $645,030 over the current one. The projections show that the district will have a fund balance of $680,933 at the end of this school year, and $498,881 at the end of the 1976-77 term.

"We're solvent," Duerr told the trustees. "That's subject for rejoicing in itself."

Fundamental school for A.L. sidelined by growing pains

Fundamental education today is a dead issue in Alta Loma Elementary School District at least for a year or more.

Trustees in the 2,200-pupil foothills district Monday night killed hopes for converting one of the district's three elementary schools into a basic "readin', writin' and 'rithmatic" academy strong on discipline and patriotism.

Reasons given by Supt. Floyd Stork were growing pains. Stork said burgeoning housing developments keep the district busy building new schools and enlarging others to meet increased pupil load.

The district is on a partial half day schedule now. But this should end next fall with the opening of Jasper School alleviating a critical classroom shortage.

However, an addition to Jasper School already is planned, doubling the size of that plant to meet projected growth. A complete new school also will be built in the district's northwestern quadrant where most house building is underway.

Stork said the district now has too few schools and too many problems to convert one school to an all-fundamental concept.

Trustees lauded backers of the fundamental concept stating that possibly some of the ideas can be incorporated into the generally middle of the road concept the district now maintains.

Stork said the door was left open, however, for founding a fundamental school once the district meets growth problems.

Members of BASIC, the group backing the concept, were unhappy at the news and plan to continue their efforts to initiate a fundamental school for the district.

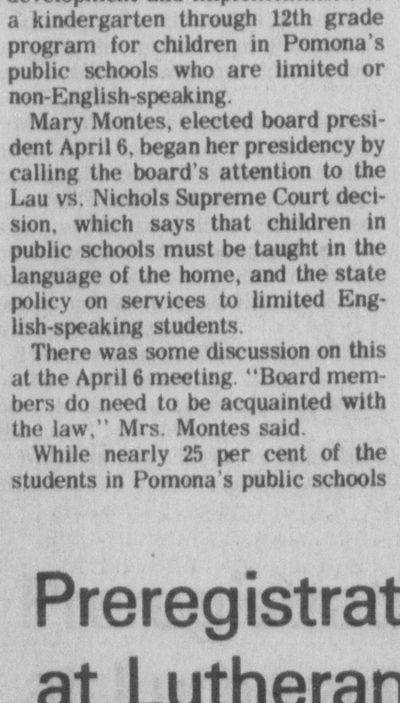

In the only other action at Monday night's meeting, trustees approved a request by the district for $137,000 in federal funds for special education projects.

Next meeting is scheduled for May 3 at Alta Loma Junior High School.

Preregistration begins at Lutheran preschool

Preregistration for the fall session of the new preschool and day-care center of Peace Lutheran Church will be held today and Wednesday in Pomona.

Preregistration hours are 4 to 6 p.m. today and Wednesday from 4 to 5:30 p.m. and 7 to 9 p.m. at the church, 1101 Glen Ave.

JEANNE GEHRKE

Jeanne Gehrke will be the full-time director of the school recently licensed by the state. She has been a teacher since 1946. She earned an associate of arts degree in social sciences from Chaffey College and a bachelor degree in education from Dallas State Teachers College.

In June, Mrs. Gehrke will receive her certificate in early childhood education-administration. She is active at Faith Lutheran Church of San Dimas where she teaches Sunday school and vacation Bible school and directs the children's choir.

She and her husband, Otto, reside in Pomona.

Peace Lutheran Pre-school and Day Care Center will begin operation in September with a full or part-time program available. A qualified licensed staff will offer Christian education and care.

Day care hours will be from 6:30 a.m. to 6 p.m. Snacks and a hot lunch will be served. Preschool instruction will be offered in the mornings.

Children ages 2 years 9 months to 5 years will be accepted.

Bus passes for elderly, disabled

The West Valley Transit Service Authority will issue senior citizen and handicapped bus passes at the Ontario Library Wednesday and May 12.

The passes will be issued between 10 a.m. and noon and 1 to 3 p.m. both days. There is a $3 fee for the pass, and the holder may ride free of additional charge on the Omnitrans buses in the West End.

Persons 62 and over are eligible for the passes which are valid until revoked. Proof of age must be furnished when applying. Handicapped persons who do not have a visible impairment must bring a doctor's letter stating the need for a pass.

Man rescued from blaze dies

Upland police have ruled that an Upland man who died of severe burns after a fire in his apartment was a suicide victim.

Merle Troxel of 831 W. Orchid St., Upland, died in the San Bernardino County Hospital burn ward of burns over 95 per cent of his body. He was admitted to the hospital in poor condition Thursday morning after he was pulled from his burning apartment by a telephone company employe and an Upland police officer.

As he was being brought out of the burning apartment he told his rescuers to leave him alone because "I just want to die." Firemen said they found a gallon gasoline can and burned matched near Troxel's bed. The bed and most of the bedroom was destroyed in the blaze.

Police believe Troxel poured gasoline on himself and the bed and lit a match.

Policewoman at Rotary

Maxine McLain, a policewoman for the City of La Verne, will be the speaker of the La Verne Rotary Club Thursday noon at the Castaway Restaurant in Pomona.

Calling her program "Lady Beware," Detective McLain will describe self-defense for women. Mrs. McLain is a past president of the California State Women Police Officers Association.

Clothing, sewing for girls

The Upland Recreation Department has scheduled two courses for young girls.

Teen-agers will be able to make their own wardrobes and save money by enrolling in the teen sewing class which begins Wednesday.

Marion Lemmons will instruct the eight-week classes on Wednesdays from 3:30 to 5:30 p.m. in the Recreation Annex, 433 N. Second Ave., Upland.

The course costs $20 and registration may be made at the Upland Recreation Department, 404 N. Second Ave.

Girls from 5 to 12 are offered a course in wardrobe coordination on Thursdays from 3:30 to 4:30 p.m. and teen-agers are offered the class from 4:30 to 5:30 p.m. Both sessions will be at the Magnolia Recreation Center, 651 W. 15th St., Upland.

Jo Ann Fitzgibbons will instruct the courses which include how to speak before an audience, restaurant etiquette and how to develop friends.

Smoker charged in fire

A 64-year-old Ontario man who escaped from a burning apartment at 228 San Antonio Ave. early Sunday morning was booked in the West End Jail on a charge of starting a fire and endangering others.

Carl Arthur Hallberg, according to police reports, was under the influence of alcohol or a drug early Sunday when he fell asleep on his apartment living room sofa with a lit cigarette in his hand. The cigarette dropped from his hand and the sofa caught fire. Hallberg escaped just prior to the arrival of firemen.

Anthropology prof to talk

Laura Nader, a professor in the anthropology department of UC Berkeley, will lecture at Pitzer College on Wednesday.

As a part of the Anthropology Colloquium Series at the college, Mrs. Nader will speak on "Order in a Faceless Society" at 4:15 p.m. in Avery Auditorium. The talk is open to the public.

China health care is topic

"Health Care in China" will be the topic of Dr. Alex Shulman on Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. in the Founders Room, McConnell Center, Pitzer College, Claremont.

Dr. Shulman, a Los Angeles surgeon, toured China in May 1975 with a group of United States doctors as guests of the Chinese Medical Association.

A guaranteed job for all—Brown

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. says America must guarantee a job to every citizen who wants to work, "whatever the cost."

One of those costs might be wage and price controls, at least on industries where there is limited competition, Brown said Monday at an impromptu news conference.

The 38-year-old contender for the Democratic nomination for president said he doesn't advocate broad wage and price controls, but that "greater economic planning" is essential.

When reporters asked if that planning might include wage and price controls, he replied, "That's a possibility, but only one possibility."

Brown accused Republicans of heating up the economy before presidential elections and then throwing people out of work after the election. But he later said he wasn't making a specific charge against President Ford.

Brown made his comments at a luncheon of the Farmworker Housing Conference and at impromptu news conferences before and after.

"There's so much work to be done. But it takes a commitment, and that commitment has to be to full employment, whatever the cost," Brown told the luncheon audience.

"If you don't have that full employment, you're going to pay a much bigger cost...in social breakdown, in family breakdown, in welfare costs, in unemployment," he said.

He blamed much of the nation's unemployment on "this Republican philosophy: Heat up the economy at election time, and then throw everyone out of work," Brown said.

"That's an idea that worked well for (President) Hoover. It worked well for (President) Nixon, and it's been working pretty well for Ford. But it hasn't been working very well for the American people," Brown said.

Asked if he was accusing Ford of manipulating the economy for political purposes, Brown replied: "No, (but) there's always a tendancy in election years to heat up the economy."

Brown also said he didn't pay the $250 filing fee to keep his name on Kentucky's May 25 ballot because "I didn't see any compelling reason."

That means he will be on the ballot for certain only in California and Maryland. Filing is still open in New Jersey, and the Nevada secretary of state says he will probably put Brown's name on the ballot.

Brown, who has criticized the increasing power of the federal government, said full employment requires economic controls. But he did not give details.

"The first commitment has to be to full employment...and full employment tends to heat up the economy, so there has to be some method of restraining price increases in the concentrated industries," Brown said.

"Necessary restraints can be worked out for those industries that tend to raise their prices because of their monopolistic characteristics," Brown said.

"That's called an incomes policy, and I'll have more to say on that as we get closer to June 8 (the date of the California presidential primary)," Brown said.

Discharge of county hospital patients due as doctors ready strike

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Interns and residents say they will close down Los Angeles County's three main hospitals Wednesday morning with a strike to protest quality of patient care and working conditions.

County health officials immediately began preparing Monday to discharge patients from the three facilities, County-USC Medical Center, Harbor General Hospital and Martin Luther King Jr. Hospital.

The 1,200-member Joint Council of Interns and Residents of Los Angeles County said the physicians would walk off their jobs, shutting down outpatient facilities and halting elective surgery and new admissions unless a settlement is reached.

In another development, the interns and residents revealed that the County-USC Department of Medicine has been placed on probation by a national accreditation committee because of alleged deficiencies in medical care.

The doctors say in addition to more money for better patient care, they are seeking a 25 per cent pay hike.

"But obviously that is just the amount on the bargaining table, and there is plenty of room for negotiating the amount downward if we get some consideration on such issues as the patient care fund and our intolerably long hours, which keep us on the job up to 105 hours a week," said Dr. Mark Chassin, a house-staff spokesman.

Chassin said negotiations toward a new contract have stalled after six weeks.

The main issue, he said, is "deficiencies in patient care. We have proposed remedies but the county refuses to listen to them."

Also in dispute are working hours and fringe benefits, but the main issue, said Chassin, is a Patient Care Fund. Doctors pay into the fund now, and want the county to contribute, too.

Doctors want to increase the fund to $5 million for a larger nursing staff, interpreters and life-support equipment. The fund was created last year with $1.1 million, financed mostly by physicians who gave up 5 per cent pay hikes.

Dr. Liston Witherill, Health Services Department director, said outpatient clinics, elective surgery and elective admissions would be canceled if the doctors walked out Wednesday. Strikers will be fired if they stay off the job more than four days, Witherill said.

A strike would be "unconscionable not only because it leaves patients in jeopardy but it is a simplistic and unreasonable approach to the increasingly complex problems of financing public hospital care, Witherill said.

A walkout of interns and residents would leave the hospitals in the hands of a relatively small number of faculty doctors, plus nurses and ancillary workers who do not observe the picket lines.

A virtual shutdown of the hospitals would force nonemergency patients to seek treatment at private community hospitals.

Agreeing that most county patients are indigent, Dr. Louis Simpson, a spokesman for the dissident physicians, said, "Some patients will be inconvenienced." But he added, "the poor will not be hurt."

Dr. John Terhune, head of the County-USC Medical Department, acknowledged that the Liaison Committee in Graduate Medical Education cited patient overloads, inadequate supervision of residents and shortages of allied health workers after inspecting the department last year.

But he called the probationary action publicized by the interns an "inappropriate judgment" and said improvements had been made. He said County-USC provides better care than most big city public hospitals.

He added, however, that the "Board of Supervisors is not putting enough money into the hospital to enable us to provide the quality of care you would get in a community hospital."

Terhune said that while the faculty doctors do not specifically support the interns and residents' strike, "We are behind their efforts to obtain good quality medical care for the patients. Through routine channels we have been unable to get it."

Spotlight on area crime

Pomona woman jailed in shooting of her husband

A Pomona woman was booked on suspicion of assault with intent to commit murder early Monday afternoon, accused of shooting her husband at 896 Collingwood Ave.

The victim, Earlie Harris, 44, was shot twice in the chest with a .32-caliber automatic pistol. His condition today was termed serious in Pomona Valley Community Hospital's intensive care unit.

Police arrested Harris' wife, Jimmie Lee Harris, 41. The weapon was found inside the family car.

Investigators said the couple had been arguing over finances when Harris was shot. Arriving officers found him lying on the floor of a bedroom.

Attendant shot

A service station attendant was wounded Monday night by one of three robbers who shot him apparently for no reason, POMONA police reported.

The victim, Randy W. Lowe, 22, Pomona, was taken to Pomona Valley Community Hospital where his condition today was termed good. He had a bullet wound in his lower left arm.

The shooting occurred at the Mobil Oil station at 2207 W. Valley Blvd. Lowe said he was approached by the three young men who asked for change. When he opened the cash drawer, one pulled a pistol and held him at gunpoint while the drawer was looted. Then he was ordered into the station's back room, but as he began backing in that direction, the gunman fired two shots at him. One hit him in the arm and the three robbers fled.

The gunman was described as black, in his late teens, about 5 feet 8 weighing 165 pounds. He wore a knit cap, yellow sweat shirt with Mt. Sac on the front, blue jeans and a ¾-length coat.

Arrested in rape

A 22-year-old ONTARIO man was booked in West End Jail this morning in connection with the alleged kidnaping and rape of a 17-year-old Corona girl early Saturday morning.

The suspect is Nathaniel Samuel, 22, of 1727 Miramonte St., Ontario.

Police said he went to an Ontario bar with the victim and her boyfriend Friday night and later, at gunpoint, ordered the boyfriend to drive to a rural area of Ontario. The suspect then allegedly raped the girl and ordered her boyfriend into the trunk of the car, police said.

Market burglarized

Burglars forced their way into the Stop and Go Market, 1220 E. Sixth St. in ONTARIO Monday morning and made off with numerous cases of beer, milk and soda pop valued at $1,178, police reported.

The burglary was discovered early Monday morning, but store manager Marian Kerns on checking the rear storage room later Monday found the merchandise missing.

Police said a suspicious dark van containing two men was seen in the area early Monday.

Sentenced to gas chamber

LONG BEACH (AP) — A man on parole for the "thrill killing" of a baby girl has been sentenced to die in the gas chamber for murdering his parents.

John Lawrence Miller, 33, reportedly told a probation officer before his Monday sentencing that he didn't have the courage to kill himself and wished the state would do it for him.

Long Beach Superior Court Judge Carroll N. Dunnum sentenced Miller who was convicted last month of shooting his parents to death in October.

Miller acted as his own attorney during his trial and told jurors there was no justification for finding him innocent or insane.

Miller had been in prison for 18 years for the suffocation murder of 22-month-old Laura Helen Wetzel in 1957 and had been released two months before his parents' double murder. He was 15 years old at the time of the first murder.

Deputy Dist. Atty. Allen Field, who prosecuted Miller, said the defendant had told parole officers he could not cope with the outside world.

Authorities said Harold Miller, 61, and his 60-year-old wife, Lela Mae, were killed by their son Oct. 21 in their Long Beach home.

Field said Miller told a probation officer his parents were cruel to him and that his father was responsible for his being sent to prison earlier.

Miller was arrested during a bungled bank robbery in Downey a week after the murders. He faces trial Oct. 28 on the bank robbery attempt charge.

Upland school chief named to post in Fountain Valley

Bill R. Plaster, Upland School District superintendent, was named superintendent of the Fountain Valley School District at a special trustees meeting Tuesday night.

The new appointment is effective July 1, according to a spokesman for the Fountain Valley district.

Plaster will announce his resignation from the Upland post at a special meeting at 5 p.m. today. The Upland school board has already been informed of Plaster's desire to accept the Fountain Valley post if offered and trustees have informally agreed to release him.

Plaster became superintendent of the 11-school Upland district in January 1973. Prior to assuming his present post, he was assistant superintendent of the Santa Barbara School District from 1970 to 1973.

Some 14,000 kindergarten through eighth grade students attend the 22 schools in the fast-growing Fountain Valley District which includes seven schools in Huntington Beach.

S.F. strike

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Leaders of striking city employes said today the "only way out" of the three-week labor dispute that has shut down all public transportation is "intensive, round-the-clock negotiations."

Hughes' will not in safety deposit box

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A Hollywood bank safe deposit box maintained by Howard Hughes yielded some jewelry but further stymied those looking for the late billionaire's will, a source knowledgable about the search says.

A source close to the Summa Corp. said Monday that officials didn't find the will Hughes associates insist he wrote and that some have said he put under lock at the South Hollywood Branch of the Bank of America.

The box held only some "not extremely valuable jewelry," the source said.

Summa runs Hughes' farflung entertainment and aerospace enterprises.

Petitions ask review of state's parole policies

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The family of Debra Ann Rebiejo, who was murdered by a recently paroled convict, has presented petitions to the legislature demanding an investigation of parole policies.

Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Rebiejo of San Lorenzo and their son, Wayne, 27, delivered a cardboard box full of petitions Monday to Sen. H. L. Richardson, R-Arcadia.

A bill by Richardson that would specify mandatory sentences without parole for felonies is pending in the legislature.

The family said the petitions were signed by 50,000 people.

Miss Rebiejo, 21, a student at Chabot College in Hayward, was found shot to death in Solano County last September.

James Reece, 32, who had been released from a state prison medical facility less than two months earlier, was convicted of the crime on April 13. A sentencing hearing is scheduled today.

Wayne Rebiejo said his cousin, Larry Sturgeon, drafted the petition, which demands that a committee of legislators and private citizens investigate Adult Authority parole policies and prison procedures at the California Medical Facility in Vacaville, where Reece was imprisoned.

Mr. and Mrs. Rebiejo blamed Adult Authority chairman Raymond Procunier for Reece's release. Procunier was former Gov. Ronald Reagan's prisons chief before his appointment to the Adult Authority by Gov. Edmund Brown Jr.

The state Senate refused last year to confirm Procunier's appointment, but Gov. Brown has resubmitted his name.

"As far as I'm concerned, he (Procunier) is just as guilty as Reece and that is just what I told him," said Anthony Rebiejo.

"I feel he helped hand that gun to Reece," said Mrs. Rebiejo. "That man had no right to be out in society. He's an animal."

Wayne Rebiejo said the first signatures on the petitions were gathered outside St. John's Catholic Church in San Lorenzo last October. Since then, he said, signatures were received by mail from all over the state.

"I swore on her death that I wouldn't rest until something positive came about," Wayne said.

Marine begged for his life, died

Fatal blow to head in training

OCEANSIDE (AP) — Lynn McClure begged for his life before being struck a fatal blow to the head in a Marine Corps training exercise in San Diego, says a man who claims to have struck the blow.

Attorney John Gyorkos told newsmen Monday that he had interviewed two former Marine recruits who had helped beat McClure into senselessness in a close combat drill at the Marine Corps Recruit Depot in San Diego.

McClure, 20, was knocked unconscious last December and was rushed into emergency brain surgery at Balboa Naval Hospital in San Diego. He was eventually transferred to the Veterans Hospital in Houston, where he died March 13 without regaining consciousness.

At a news conference, Gyorkos played taped conversations which he said were interviews with two former recruits who took part in the pugil stick bouts in which McClure was fatally beaten.

Both witnesses acknowledged they had received general discharges and were considered unfit for Marine duty.

The first man on the tape said he struck the lethal blow to the right side of McClure's head with the heavy canvas-covered, padded sticks used by the Marines to simulate bayonet fighting.

"He just laid there like he was having a spastic attack with mucous pouring out of his mouth," he said.

The witness said he has never forgotten McClure's last cries for mercy and said he feels he needs psychiatric help as a result of the incident.

"It's all I can see when I go to bed. There's no going to sleep. All I can hear are his screams asking for the mercy of God. We lived like animals. There was no fairness whatsoever."

Both the Marine Corps and Congress are conducting separate investigations into the death and the recruiting of the young man from Lufkin, Tex. Gyorkos has filed a $3.5 million wrongful death claim against the federal government on behalf of his family.

The second witness purportedly taped by Gyorkos disputed official Marine Corps statements that McClure wore a protective helmet at all times during the pugil stick fights.

Spokesmen for the Marine Corps Recruit Depot have described McClure as a problem recruit with a poor attitude.

The second witness said that both he and McClure had been assigned to the Motivation Platoon after going AWOL (absent without leave) and being picked up by Marine authorities.

Woman's body found

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The crew of a University of Southern California research vessel has found the body of a woman believed by authorities to be that of one of six persons missing after a storm last week wrecked their 22-foot cabin cruiser.

County Lifeguard Lt. Steve Voorhees said the body found Monday by the crew of the Valero was clad in a lifejacket, swimsuit top, jeans and a coat.

Authorities said the body fit the general decription of Debbie Braeton, 24, a visitor to Southern California from Michigan.

She and five others were aboard the Sure Bet, which sent out distress calls last Thursday. The ship's wreckage was spotted 20 miles west of Point Firmin, 11 miles from where the body was found.

King to visit Ford plant

DETROIT (AP) — King Carl XVI Gustaf of Sweden, a car buff, plans to visit Ford Motor Co.'s River Rouge plant assembly line Wednesday and lunch with the chairmen of all four auto companies. He was visiting today in downstate Illinois after staying overnight in Chicago.

The king, in the United States on a Bicentennial visit, will tour a car assembly line with Henry Ford II as his guide.

Out-of-prison party

WASHINGTON (AP) — Dwight Chapin, former appointments secretary to President Richard Nixon, celebrated his release from prison by throwing a cocktail party in Washington's fashionable Georgetown neighborhood.

He spent eight months in a federal minimum security penitentiary after his conviction on charges of lying to a federal grand jury.

The party was hosted Monday night by Mr. and Mrs. Henry Cashen. Cashen, a former White House aide to confessed Watergate conspirator Charles Colson, is now a partner in Colson's old law firm, Colson and Shapiro.

Among those at the garden gathering were Colson, who was special counsel to Nixon; Richard Moore, also a counsel to Nixon; Patrick Buchanan, a conservative columnist who was a Nixon speechwriter; Time magazine White House correspondent Dean Fischer; and Anthony Stout, publisher of the Washington-based weekly, the National Journal.

Comedian has surgery

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Comedian Frank Gorshin is recovering from knee surgery at Century City Hospital and should be released by the end of the week, according to his agent, Marty Klein.

Gorshin underwent surgery Saturday for severed ligaments and damaged cartilage in his left knee following a skiing accident a day earlier at Park City, Utah.

'Justice, 1st Amendment

Judge to speak to press club

San Bernardino County Superior Court Judge Richard C. Garner will be the speaker at the meeting of the Press Club of Southern California on Friday. The 6:30 p.m. dinner meeting will be held at the Arbor Restaurant in Upland.

The topic of Judge Garner's talk will be "Justice and the First Amendment." It will deal with the controversial subject of press coverage at trials.

On the bench since 1965, Garner was a Municipal Court judge in Ontario from 1965 to 71 and has been serving in Superior Court since 1971. He was presiding judge of Municipal Court in 1969 and served two terms (1974 and 1975) as presiding judge of the Superior Court.

The press club meeting is open to members and guests and reservations may be obtained through Mary Remillard at 622-1201.

What's going on around here

FISH DERBY — The Cucamonga-Guasti Park in Ontario is holding its last trout derby of the season through April 25. Trophies will be awarded.

Because of the trout season success, the regular fishing fees will not be charged. The park's regular admission fees of 50 cents per car and 10 cents per pedestrian will remain in effect.

STAY SLIM — The West End YMCA in Ontario has begun a new session on slimnastic classes.

The exercise classes for women will be held each Monday, Wednesday and Friday at 9:30 a.m. and each Tuesday and Thursday at 7:30 p.m.

Persons wanting more information may phone the YMCA at 986-5847. The address is 215 W. C St., Ontario.

FOR SENIOR CITIZENS — The Ontario Recreation Department is sponsoring a combination trip Thursday to the new Los Angeles Mall in Los Angeles and the Huntington Library in San Marino for senior citizens.

The cost is $4.50 per person, which doesn't include meals. Only 39 reservations will be accepted. Persons may contact the recreation office, 217 S. Lemon St., between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m.

DEFENSE COURSE — The Ontario Recreation Department will begin a four-week course Thursday for women only on assault-rape defense.

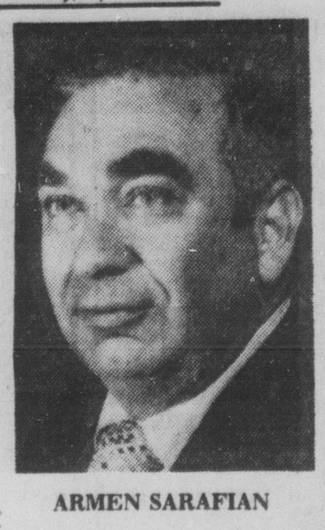

Sessions will be held each Thursday from 7 to 9 p.m. Cost is $15 and pre-registration at the recreation office is requested.

READ THE LABELS — San Bernardino County growers are urged to read the labels of pesticides used in their pest control programs.

Many pesticide labels have warning statements which prohibit the use of crop residues (straw) as livestock feed, said Roger Birdsall, county agricultural commissioner.

"It is important that growers plan their pest control programs with consideration of what they may do with these crop residues."

Birdsall is concerned with straw from such crops as alfalfa, seed clover, beans and peas that may be used for livestock feed.

ARMEN SARAFIAN

Pasadena honors LVC chief

Armen Sarafian, new president of La Verne College, has received the Arthur Noble Award for public service from the City of Pasadena.

Sarafian served as president of Pasadena City College for 28 years before resigning last fall to become president of the small private college in La Verne.

The award was bestowed on Sarafian last week.

Richard G. Landis, president of Del Monte Corp., who presented the award, said Sarafian built Pasadena College into one of the finest community college systems in America with 17,000 full-time and 30,000 part time students.

He said Sarafian now runs a college that has 900 students and a faculty of 100.

"For those who have known Armen over the years, his decision was thoroughly in character," he declared. Selflessness, loyalty to an institution that had been a part of his life and his father's life for over 50 years, and the excitement of a new and thoroughly challenging assignment are part of it."

In his response to the plaudits, Sarafian said that La Verne was "something like a Pasadena suburb now." He said he hoped many graduates of the two-year Pasadena College would complete their education at La Verne.

New jobless agency places 76

Re-employment Action Committee (REAC), a government-funded agency in Pomona, has placed a total of 76 persons, 38 of whom were economically disadvantaged, in jobs during the first three months of the year.

According to the new administrator of the Pomona office, James C. Fuqua Jr., this is an excellent record based upon the agency's total program during 1975.

REAC was established last May in an attempt to reverse the high unemployment and return unemployed to self-supporting jobs.

Between May and the end of the year, the Pomona office placed 156 people in jobs. Of these, 71 were considered economically disadvantaged, Fuqua said.

Similar programs are operated in Azusa and Alhambra. The employment program is sponsored by Citrus College which contributes office equipment and supplies and is financed by county and federal funds.

JAMES C. FUQUA JR.

Fuqua said that REAC does not compete with either private employment agencies or state employment programs, but complements them. REAC is a free service to both the employe and the employer.

Applicants are assisted by REAC staff members in applying for jobs. Within the past three months, adults have been placed as engineer's helpers, waitresses, general office workers, punch press operators and cooks. Wages have been as high as $8.66 an hour, Fuqua said.

The service is open to all valley residents. Persons seeking employment are invited to visit the office at 130 E. First St., Pomona, or call 622-6777.

Residents in the San Gabriel Valley may obtain assistance at the offices at 515 N. Azusa Ave., Azusa, and 1342 E. Main St., Alhambra.

USSR missiles

The presence of Russian missiles in Cuba was protested by President John F. Kennedy in 1962. Danger of nuclear war ended when the Russians withdrew the missiles.

Scholarship fete slated at church

The Fourth Annual Father Angel Beta Scholarship Dinner will be held Sunday from 1 to 6 p.m. at Sacred Heart Catholic Church in Pomona.

Proceeds will be used for scholarships for eighth grade students planning to continue their educations at either Pomona Catholic or Damien high schools.

Some $1,400 was raised and awarded in scholarships last year.

The dinner menu will include barbecued beef, refried beans, rice, green salad and corn tortillas. Beverages and desserts will be sold separately.

Tickets are $2.50 for adults and $1.25 for children under 12. They may be purchased at the door.

Richard Alvarez is chairman of the event. There will be music. In addition, Robbie Regalado and Company will perform.

This scholarship fund was started in Father Beta's name after he left Pomona to go to Spain. He served as pastor at Sacred Heart from 1937 to 1973.

Cinco de Mayo fiesta planned

Open Choices and the Cherrieville Council in Pomona will hold a Cinco de Mayo fiesta on May 9 from 1 to 7 p.m. at Cherrieville Park.

A general planning meeting for all interested persons will be held Monday at 6:30 p.m. at 752 E. Monterey Ave., Pomona.

For further information, persons may call Susan Gomez at 623-1281 or Rudy Gutierrez at 623-6131.

2 to lead campaign for Israel

Gedaliah Ross and Jim Kelber of Ontario have been chosen cochairmen of the Ontario-Pomona campaign for State of Israel bonds for 1976.

The drive starts with a dinner May 6 at Griswold's in Claremont at which the Jewish community will honor Fred Krinsky of Claremont for his devotion and service to the valley and the State of Israel.

The fund-raising board of governors this year consists of Harold Rosenbloom, Stanley Dickens, Sam Kelber, Henry Posner, Joseph Rebhun, Harold Savage, Larry Thorne and Mickey Ross.

Since the inception of the program in 1951, more than $3½ billion worth of bonds have been sold. More than half of that amount already has been redeemed.

Bus trip for elderly

The La Verne Parks and Recreation Department will conduct a bus tour for senior citizens to the new Live Oak Reservoir May 11.

The bus will leave at 9:15 a.m. and return by 11 a.m. Pickup points are the main administration building at Hillcrest East and Hillcrest West, and the Alpha Beta parking lot at Third and D streets.

Doctor also fire chief

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP) — Dr. Aaron Cottle, 37, is a general practitioner and Roane County health officer. He is also chief of the Spencer-Roane Volunteer Fire Department.

Cottle is also certified by the West Virginia University extension service as a fire fighting trainer.

Soliz and Lichty vows are repeated

The Chapel in the Wildwood in Upland was the setting for the marriage of Debra Sue Lichty of Chino and Steven Soliz of Pomona. The couple was wed by the Rev. Lee Kirk in an afternoon ceremony followed by a reception at the Chapel of the Bells.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Terry Lichty of Chino. The bridgegroom is the son of Tony Soliz of Pomona and Mrs. Joyce Casteneda of Azusa.

Miss Brenda Holiman of Chino was honor attendant. Serving as best man was Mickey Floyd of Ontario. Other attendants were Debbie Ekstrand of Chino and Pam Kendrick of Chino. Barbara Dymon of Riverside was flower girl. Ushers were Marty Friola of Azusa and Steven Lichty of Chino.

The couple honeymooned at San Diego and are now residing in Pomona.

Secretaries plan program, dinner

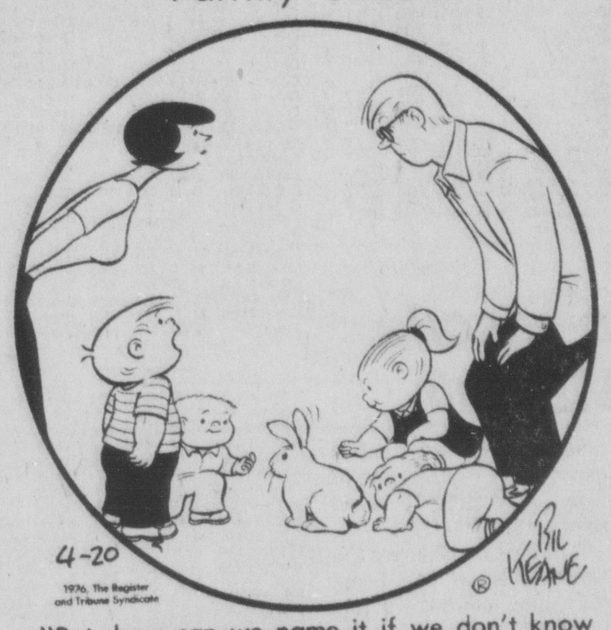

A program by The Trojanaires of Edgewood High School in West Covina will highlight the program when Executives' Secretaries Inc., Pomona Valley Chapter, meets Thursday at Orlando's in Pomona.

The 28 singers, dancers and instrumentalists under the direction of Richard Kinzler are selected students from Edgewood, the nation's first officially recognized Bicentennial high school. Each year the group entertains thousands of people throughout California and in neighboring states

Mrs. Richard Soper, membership director and representative for Pomona First Federal Savings and Loan Association, will introduce Larry Arsonage and Mrs. Diane Snow of new member firm, TISE, Pomona.

The hospitality hour will begin at 6:30 p.m. and dinner will be served at 7:30 p.m. Reservations may be made with Mrs. Suzanne Shoemaker at the Progress Bulletin.

"But, how can we name it if we don't know whether it's a boy or a girl?"

Joyce Brothers
'Quiet' teen-agers

DEAR DR. BROTHERS: Our 15-year-old son is a very good boy who has never joined the rude-mannered, pot-smoking youth that we hear so much about. He is a quiet boy who has always been very studious. Suddenly, this past semester at school, just as he was deciding on what his major vocational interests would be, he began to have difficulty with his studies and actually failed two subjects. — T. L.

Dear T. L.: The "too quiet" teenager may actually present a bigger problem that those "rude-mannered" youngsters you refer to. Rebellion is a natural part of growing up and if there is no visible rebellion at all, it probably means it is being repressed, or directed in other channels that parents are not aware of.

Some psychologists feel that in the unconscious mind the academic failure represents, in part, a fear of competition with the father.

In your son's case it may mean that the boy feels he won't do as well as his father, or that he may do even better — so much so that his father may be embarrassed by his son's success or resent it. Of course, this is much more apt to be true if the son is thinking of pursuing the same career as his father. This, in a sense, puts him in direct line of competition.

Rebelliousness in adolescence can take many forms; silence may be one of them. Do not assume that just because your son is quiet, he feels no resentment, rivalry or rebellion. These attitudes are unquestionably there but they are taking indirect routes and quiet forms. Actually, most psychiatrists feel it is much beter if some of the antagonism that most children feel toward their parents in the teen years can be expressed and brought out in the open. It is better to clear the air and move on to other problems. This is the time when a boy often feels a jealousy toward his father who seems to have all the things that he, as a young man, does not have. Many boys remain respectful of their fathers but turn their irritation toward their mothers. They may ctiticize her appearance and behavior, or blow up suddenly at nothing at all.

School failure is a common sign of rivalry although few parents and educators recognize it as such. This may often occur just at the time when, as in your son's case, the boy has made a decision of what profession, or major, he wishes to follow. He may withdraw from his studies because of a fear of failure, but he may also see it as a way to get back at his parents, to hurt them.

Business Mirror

High interest blamed for lack of expansion

NEW YORK (AP) — The question is probably one for psychological and political analysts as well as for business experts: Why is business reluctant to commit funds for capital expansion?

For several months now there seems to have been sufficient incentive for a substantial rise in spending plans, but industry as a whole hasn't responded to the economic recovery with a great deal of enthusiasm.

Not nearly to the degree to which consumers have lifted their spending and their plans for spending, even though they also continue to show a moderate degree of caution.

The most common explanation seems to be that, with manufacturing capacity being utilized at only 80 per cent or so, there is still time to spare. Why build when you already have unused space?

True, but it takes time to make plans and appropriate funds, and it takes time also to build and work the gremlins out of new plants. By then, some analysts fear, consumer demand will have exceeded supply.

Another school doesn't take nearly so bleak an outlook. Instead, members of this group look for an increase in expansion activity to begin very soon, now that there is assurance the recovery won't be aborted.

John Wright, the research-oriented head of Wright Bankers' Service, whose opinions influence the handling of hundreds of millions of dollars of bank trust funds, doesn't agree with either theory.

"The explanation is obvious," says Wright. "Interest rates are too high." This is his observation:

"Never before has any recessionary period been followed by a monetary policy which has sustained interest rates at levels which in prior periods have been the cause rather than the cure of economic recession."

Never before during a recessionary period, he maintains, has the prime lending rate failed to decline to well below 6 per cent, and thereby stimulate a recovery. And neither has the long-term bond borrowing rate been maintained at well above 8 per cent.

While Wright doesn't refer by name to Arthur Burns, the Federal Reserve Board chairman, his criticism obviously is directed toward Fed policy. And that policy, some say, is partially derived from this being an election year.

Say the critics: The Fed doesn't want to be accused, as it has in the past, of bending policy to accommodate the party in power. Therefore, it has maintained a less easy monetary policy than it might pursue in another year.

The consequence, says Wright, is that there can be no major economic recovery of industrial capacity simply because the cost of financing major capital expenditures is still prohibitively high.

"It is one thing to borrow at 4 per cent to 6 per cent to build new capacity which will probably be needed in the future," he comments, "but quite another to pay 8 per cent to 12 per cent for capital which may not produce any return for several years . . ."

If this situation prevails much longer, he concludes, it is possible for consumer demands gradually to catch up with industrial capacity, leading to shortages of goods, and that in turn to higher prices.

D.B. Beauty Pageant slated

ROSE MARIE

Six contestants will compete in the Miss Diamond Bar Beauty Pageant set for April 30. Actress Rose Marie will be mistress of ceremonies.

The contestants are Sue Shields, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T.J. Shields Jr.; Kelly Smith, 18, daughter of Gordon Smith; Elizabeth Uteda, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carlos Uteda; Janet Beck, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Beck; Deborah Lovett, 19, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Lovett; and Peggy Haido, 18, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. Haido.

The pageant will be held at the Pomona National Country Club in Walnut preceded by dinner and followed by dancing to music by "The Dynasty."

Tickets at $8.50 each may be obtained by calling Dr. Allan Sproles at 595-7451 or Rose Baldwin at 595-5873.

A regular on "Hollywood Squares," Miss Marie is seen on television in reruns of the "Dick Van Dyke Show" and the "Doris Day Show."

New exec appointed at college

James L. Catanzaro has been appointed personnel officer at Chaffey College.

Catanzaro was selected for the post from a field of 14 candidates and his appointment was approved at the recent meeting of the college trustees.

Now serving as personnel director for Sparkling Division of Envirotech Corp. in El Monte, Catanzaro will report for duty with the college on April 26.

JAMES CATANZARO

Before joining the El Monte firm in 1973, Catanzaro was associate dean of students at Cal State Fullerton for three years. His other academic experience includes four years as social science division chairman and instructor at Golden West College and two years on the faculty at Orange Coast College.

Catanzaro replaces P.J. Mahler who resigned from the college in February to take the job as chief labor negotiator for the City and County of San Francisco.

Catanzaro earned his Ph.D. at Claremont Graduate School in 1964. He holds a B.D. from Talbot Theological Seminary, La Mirada, and a B.A. degree from Barrington College in Rhode Island.

LVC to honor 35 high schoolers

More than 35 high school seniors who have established records of academic excellence will be honored at a luncheon Thursday in the President's Dining Room on the La Verne College campus.

La Verne College President Armen Sarafian will address the recipients of $500 scholarships from local high schools, the Churches of the Brethren and the California Scholarship Federation. Wayne Miller, dean of undergraduate studies, will present each student with a certificate of merit.

Local students who will be honored include Richard Keeler and Jason A. Noyes of Claremont; Jack Mauldin, Dean and Dale L. Davis, Donna LeAnn Griffith and Jeffrey W. Pence of La Verne; Lyndel Morgan of San Dimas; Linda Bridges, Danny R. Houck and Ruth Barnes of Pomona; Barry R. Davis of Montclair; Lori R. Hall and Michele D. Everage of La Puente; Maria Avila of Etiwanda, Linda Annette Andrejko of Ontario; and Mary P. Fitzpatrick of Walnut.

Lingering lunchers cost U.S. $1.2 billion

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal workers' leisurely lunches are taking a $1.2-billion bite each year out of taxpayers' pockets, congressional auditors claim.

That's how much the General Accounting Office figures the lost production time cost the government. Federal employes get 30 minutes for lunch, but most take 45 minutes to an hour, the GAO said Sunday.

The civilian payroll is around $40 billion, and if every worker takes an extra 15 minutes, then they're wasting 3 per cent of their time, or $1.2 billion worth. Even if only half the workers overstay the lunch period half the time, the cost would be $300 million, the auditors calculated.

They suggested that the Civil Service Commission and the White House extend both the lunch time and the work day to get a full 40-hour week from employes.

"It might make it a little easier to swallow the cost of federal government if it didn't include lunch," said Rep. Jack Brooks, D-Tex., chairman of the House Government Operations Committee, which received the report from the GAO.

Churches taking a beating

SHAFTER (AP) — Baptist Church Parsonages are taking a beating in this Central California community.

Last fall, lightning struck the parsonage at First Baptist Church, causing almost $1,000 damage but no injuries.

During the Sunday School hour Easter morning, a clothes drier ignited a fire that caused $9,000 damage to the parsonage of First Southern Baptist Church.

The Rev. Peter Rutledge, helped by his congregation, put out the flames in his house, then conducted Easter worship.

NEIGHBORHOOD HOME BEAUTIFUL CONTEST

To give recognition to those residents who have contributed so much to the beauty of Pomona by the care they have taken of the outside appearance of their property, Pomona Beautiful announces an award program.

There are two parts to this contest: recognition for those who have maintained high standards of care of their property during the past year or more, and also recognition for those who have recently fixed up and improved a property.

Certificates of recognition will be presented to those winning in each neighborhood. A few of the most outstanding homes will be designated as Home of the Week. Entries must be received by May 10, 1976.

Almanac

By The Associated Press

Today is Tuesday, April 20, the 111th day of 1976. There are 255 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1775, the American siege of British forces in Concord began in the American Revolution.

On this date—

In 1657, Jews in New Amsterdam were granted equal rights and privileges of citizens.

In 1662, Connecticut was granted a royal charter extending to the Pacific Ocean.

In 1836, the U.S. Congress established the territory of Wisconsin.

In 1889, Adolf Hitler was born in Austria.

In 1934, Shirely Temple was launched on her career as a child star as the film, "Stand Up and Cheer," was released.

In 1945, in World War II, Soviet forces penetrated the defenses of Berlin, and the U.S. Seventh Army captured the German city of Nuerenberg.

Ten years ago: U.S. planes attacking North Vietnam made their closest strikes yet to the key port of Haiphong, bombing a railway bridge.

Five years ago: The U.S. Supreme Court unanimously ruled that busing of students could be ordered to achieve racial desegregation.

One year ago: Communist forces overrunning South Vietnam eased up in their drive toward Saigon but continued to cut off the city from surrounding territory.

Today's birthdays: Former New York Mayor Robert Wagner is 66. Nuclear physicist Alvin Weinberg is 61.

Thought for today: An econmist is a man who knows more about money than the people who have it — anonymous.

Bicentennial footnote: Two hundred years ago today, Richard Henry Lee wrote to his fellow Virginian, Patrick Henry, that Virginia must take the lead in forming the Continental Congress into a government, and other colonies would follow.

Ex-preacher's 1957 rock record flop now major hit in England

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — In 1957, Hank Mizell recorded "Jungle Rock" in a Chicago garage. It sold 120 copies in the United States. Today the ex-preacher's release is a major hit — in England.

"Nothing will be the same again for me and my family," said the 52-year-old Murfreesboro, Tenn., singer in an interview Wednesday.

"I hope things never are like they used to be. We were so poor my kids' shoes were rotting out."

A London record collector is responsible for Mizell's new fame. Last month, the collector took the song to a London discotheque where it was played repeatedly.

San Francisco

San Francisco was founded as the pueblo of Yerba Buena in 1834, acquiring its present name in 1847. The San Francisco Bay area was visited in 1769 by Spanish Sgt. Jose Ortega. The city proper has a population of less than 700,000 but it is the center of a metropolitan area of more than three million, sixth largest in the United States.

Pomona acts to control unsightly properties

By ED PRATHER
PB Staff Writer

Pomona City Council unanimously approved a property maintenance ordinance Monday night empowering the city to declare private property a nuisance on the basis of its appearance and to order corrective action.

The goal of the ordinance is to protect property values by forcing all property owners to provide at least minimal levels of maintenance such as the removal of trash or junk from public view and routine maintenance of grounds.

The ordinance will be applicable to residential, business and vacant property.

While the vote placing the ordinance on first reading was unanimous, several of the councilmen warned that it must be carefully enforced.

"I think the ordinance is good, but I want to make sure it isn't capriciously or arbitrarily enforced," said Councilman Charles Bader.

Councilman Benjamin Ochoa questioned whether persons living on a fixed income would be ordered to paint their house or make other improvements they couldn't afford.

City Planner Sanford Sorenson assured the council that the appeal process provided by the ordinance would allow residents the opportunity to complain if the ordinance was unfairly applied.

The ordinance is actually an amendment to the city's zoning laws and violations will be handled in the same manner as other zoning violations.

A city inspector will investigate the appearance of a property after receiving a complaint from a citizen. If the inspector determines that the property is in violation of the ordinance, an order will be issued to the owner and occupant of the property to correct the violation.

The order may be appealed to the Planning Commission, City Council and in the courts.

The ordinance does not provide for the city to take corrective action at the owners expense.

During the public hearing preceding the council's vote, Joe Heningan, representing the local apartment owners' association, and Joe Gendron, representing the Chamber of Commerce, told the council that the organizations supported the ordinance.

Walt Grant was the only person to protest the ordinance. He said the city would start regulating too many things including parking of recreation vehicles.

A great deal of discussion centered on whether the ordinance would apply to government-owned abandoned houses, many of which would be "prime targets" of the ordinance, according to Bader.

Everyone agreed that it should apply to the federally-owned properties, but City Attorney Patrick Sampson said the city could not force compliance with the measure on federal, state, county or school district properties.

Bill Fovall, an apartment owner, suggested that the ordinance place some of the responsiblity on renters as well as owners.

He was told that the occupants of the property in violation would be contacted, but that ultimately the responsibility was the property owners.

Little-known commission claims jurisdiction

Tract near Upland airport hits a new delay

By VONNE ROBERTSON
PB Staff Writer

An Upland developer of a planned community near the airport was dealt another blow just one day before he intended to record his subdivision.

At the Upland City Council meeting Monday, a spokesman for the West Valley Airport Land Use Commission requested, and obtained, a 30-day delay in which to study the Lemonwood Park project.

Although the proposed development has been before the council fairly regularly since September 1970, Leon V. Keding, assistant director of planning for the commission, claimed his group, a county agency, had never been aware of the project.

On the other hand, City Atty. Don Maroney said he was unaware of any activity of the commission related to private airports and asked for a brief recess so that he could research the commission's powers.

Maroney then briefed the council on the commission's powers which appear to include "conducting hearings and making recommendations to the city" and "providing for orderly growth around airports used by the public in regard to land use and building height."

Councilwoman Ina Petokas expressed doubt that the commission could review the project and have an opinion ready in the 30 days requested.

"It appears that, by law, we must refer the proposed project to the airport land use commission," said Councilman John McCarthy, the only member of the council who admitted to even having heard of the group before.

Councilman William Bottin reluctantly recommended that the approval for Lemonwood Park Investments be delayed until May 17. The council approved by a 4-0 vote, with Councilman Hal Bailin absent.

Paul Nordberg, the developer who took over the project of 85 homes in a planned community in February 1973, said the delay jeopardizes the project.

Nordberg and his attorney said that any further delay means that financing will be refused since it was contingent upon construction starting by mid-June.

Dewey Cable, owner of Cable Airport west of the proposed development, which is north of 14th Street between Mountain and Benson Avenues, consistently has opposed the construction of homes in the extension of the flight pattern of the airport.

Cable claimed that the airport land use commission had not acted on the request earlier "because they had never been officially notified."

The development of the 19 acres was originally conceived as a mobile home park in 1970. After Nordberg took over the project in 1973, the concept was changed to detached single-family homes in a zero-lot line planned community concept.

Nordberg had been requested by the city to reduce the density from 100 to 85 homes and to allow a green belt area in the middle which would permit a plane in trouble to land.

These requests had been met by the developer.

In other action, the council authorized an agreement with Astara, Inc., for required improvements at the former Upland College which the nondenominational religious and education organization is expected to close escrow on this month. Astara plans to occupy the campus by summer.

The council also completed agreements with the CV Disposal Co. of Santa Fe Springs for the private collection and disposal of refuse in the City of Upland. As of May 3, the disposal firm will begin collecting refuse in the city.

Report claims Sycamore and 2nd school needed

By CONRAD CASLER
PB Correspondent

Beleaguered Claremont school trustees — three of whom face recall election next month — began studying a new survey today alleging that not only should Sycamore School remain open but an additional school be built in northeastern Claremont.

A study completed three days ago by John Jurewitz, Pomona College economics instructor and a member of Citizens for Quality Education (CQE), stated that burgeoning home building in Claremont north of Foothill Boulevard necessitates keeping Sycamore School south of Foothill open and building another elementary school to north of Foothill.

The study was handed to trustees at Monday night's meeting.

Trustees' January action closing Sycamore School beginning next fall triggered the recall election set for May 18 by a well organized recall group.

Board members said falling enrollment in the Historic Claremont area precipitated the closure. But opponents of the action charged three conservative school board members singled out Sycamore School for closure because of its liberal open classroom concept.

Trustees William Anderson, Beverly Shacklett and Ernest Taylor, who voted for closure, face the recall election.

Board members took no action on Jurewitz' report Monday night. Board president Arthur Steffen Jr. said since members were just handed the new analysis report at the meeting and they would need time to study it.

In the detailed 12-page report full of statistical tables, Jurewitz cited Claremont City Hall figures indicating 999 homes are either in the planning stages or under construction now.

Based on a little more than one pupil per home average, that will dump more than 1,000 new pupils into the system shortly, Jurewitz stated, reversing a recent drop in enrollment.

Closure of Sycamore School therefore would not be sound economically, the report stated.

If Sycamore School is closed, rooms normally used for special education classes at other schools would have to be converted to normal classroom use, eliminating many programs for the handicapped and gifted students, the report charged.

Jurewitz also was critical of forcing scores of elementary students to cross busy Foothill Boulevard (U.S. Route 66) to get to school north of the thoroughfare.

Jurewitz also alleged that closure of Sycamore would raise the number of students per teacher above the current 28.5 to one ratio.

Steffen said the board probably would make a statement on the report at the next board meeting in two weeks if study and formulation of the tentative 1976-77 budget does not interfere.

In other action, trustees:

— Heard a report on availability of liability insurance for PFA and school booster groups at lower rates but took no action pending further study.

— Heard a new housing report from Supt. Richard Kirkendall roughly paralleling the one submitted by Jurewitz.

— Entered into a weed abatement agreement with Lewis Homes on Grand Avenue in which the housing developer will pay for weed removal on a vacant school site abutting a Lewis housing tract.

— Agreed to bill four school board candidates between $75 and $100 each for their statement of qualification accompanying sample ballots.

Board members huddled with Supt. Kirkendall in a secret meeting an hour before the public meeting at Danbury School.

Montclair moves to curb spiraling vandalism at park

By MAE TATE
PB Staff Writer

Prompted by a complaint from Councilman Tom McClure, the Montclair City Council instructed its staff Monday night to detail vandalism costs at the new Wilderness Park, increase the number of arrests of vandals and contact school officials for cooperation in curbing the vandalism problem.

The city has spent more than $150,000 in three years for development of the park on San Bernardino Road, adjacent to the Chino Basin Water Conservation District office.

Since its opening in March, the park has been plagued with increasing vandalism, mainly by youthful offenders, according to police and city officials. Trees and shrubs, signs and sprinkler heads have been ripped out, gates and locks have been cut and graffiti has been painted on wall surfaces.

"It makes little or no sense to me to build a park out of taxpayers' dollars and have a few destroy it," McClure charged. "This is my property, our property that these people are destroying. It galls me to have tax dollars spent on parks and have someone tear it apart."

McClure suggested that the staff solicit the cooperation of the Ontario-Montclair School District, gain a "thumbnail sketch of the dollar amount of the vandalism, mimeograph information sheets and send it all home to parents."

"We've got to have police tell these kids, 'you're going to jail. You can't go out and destroy other people's property, public property.' We've got to inform parents because I'm sure the kids aren't going home and telling their parents. George Washington is not among us anymore. No kid is going to go home and say, 'hey, I just cut down a tree at the park,' " McClure declared.

Mayor Harold Hayes concurred with McClure. He told of one tree that had been embedded in concrete and "a sledge iron was used to just pulverize the concrete."

Councilman Nelson Gentry pointed out that the problem of prevention rests more with the courts than with community and police enforcement.

"If you're going to start convincing the people, you must first convince the judges," Gentry said. "It is seldom that a juvenile committing a home burglary spends more than three days in a juvenile facility after conviction."

McClure noted that the barrio park on north Mills Avenue was developed mainly through the contributions and efforts of residents within the vicinity of the park. There has never been a problem of vandalism there and only one incident of graffiti and then by outsiders, he said.

"There is a feeling of ownership in the (barrio) park because of the community participation. We must develop the same sense of pride in ownership for the Wilderness Park. People would not destroy their own property, but they seem to have no compunction about going out and destroying others' property," McClure said.

The staff will report back to the City Council after gaining additional information from police and school officials on solutions to the park vandalism.

In other action the council adopted an urgency ordinance for a weed abatement contract with the Department of Agriculture of San Bernardino County after the county agreed to conduct the hearing process on appeals in the city.

Boy rests after a near drowning

A two-year-old Montclair boy is resting comfortably this morning at Doctors Hospital in Montclair after he nearly drowned in his grandfather's swimming pool at 9221 Vernon St.

The boy, Michael Ryner of Montclair, was listed in satisfactory condition at the Montclair Hospital.

Police said that the boy was visiting his grandfather Sunday when he was missed by his father. A search of the home and the backyard by his father and the grandfather, Val Andes, led to the discovery of boy floating face down in the swimming pool. The boy's father pulled him from the pool and Andes administered mouth-to-mouth resuscitation. The grandfather was able to revive the child and he was transported by paramedics to the hospital.

La Verne follows the trend, may break all ties with RTD

The La Verne City Council became the third of four cities in the valley Monday night to approve a proposal that could break all present ties with the Southern California Rapid Transit District.

Pomona and Claremont already have passed similar actions. San Dimas has turned down the proposal 3-2 but proponents of the measure say they are going back for another try.

The proposal is a state bill drafted by Assemblyman William Lancaster, R-62nd Dist., which, if approved by the four cities, would be introduced in the state legislature.

It calls for a special vote by the valley's voters on whether they want to secede from the SCRTD. If the State Senate and Assembly pass the bill, and if it is signed by Gov. Jerry Brown, an election will be held Nov. 2.

"Personally, I'm ready to go," Mayor Mike Morales declared Monday. "I've been dissatisfied with the service of the RTD for the past 14 years."

If the area comprising the four cities seceded from the RTD, it probably would join the West Valley Transit Service Authority, which provides service to cities across the San Bernardino County Line.

By supporting the sucession bill, the valley's cities place into jeopardy a proposal that could bring to Pomona a $6 to 10 million rapid transit operating division, similar to the one which has been established at El Monte.

Consideration of such a facility for the valley was disclosed last week by Supervisor Peter F. Schabarum, a member of the RTD board. However, some councilmen felt that when Schabarum resigned from the RTD board Monday it virtually eliminated any chance of getting that improvement.

Schabarum said he left the board in frustration over the adoption of expansion plans with which he disagrees.

The Lancaster proposal was presented to the La Verne council by Dave Ormiston, executive director of the Pomona Chamber of Commerce, and Wes McDaniel, executive-director of the San Bernardino Associated Governments, which provides planning for the WVTSA.

McDaniel told the council that La Verne had a federal allotment of $253,000 as its share of RTD funds, yet the RTD was only proving $188,000 worth of services. He said the valley as a whole was entitled to $2.2 million but was only getting $1.9 million worth of services.

Ormiston said the proposal will be presented to the state transportation committee April 28 if all four cities sign it.

Couple injured

A Pomona couple, riding double on a motorcycle, were injured slightly Monday evening when the machine fell with them in Holt Avenue east of Hamilton Boulevard Pomona police reported.

The driver was Lloyd G. Butcher, 33, and his passenger was 18-year-old Denise Green. Both declined medical attention.

Wrong horses, bad races

Politically, a lot of us have been looking at the wrong horses.

We've been analyzing each presidential candidate — warts and all — and each of their promises. We should be looking more seriously at who we're going to elect to the Senate and House of Representatives.

Most presidential candidates are promising change. But most presidents who have attempted change have been hamstrung by Congress, except in times of war or the Great Depression.

Jimmy Carter makes much ado about how many duplicating and overlying layers of bureaucracy he would eliminate. George Wallace makes equally "cutting" statements about the bureaucrats who run the federal government, often with little control from the White House.

President Nixon, whatever his other weaknesses, developed and presented to Congress some of the most revolutionary proposals for cutting the size of the federal government we'd seen in many years.

Mr. Nixon's program for shifting and combining departments and bureaus made anything Carter and other presidential candidates proposed, seem lame in comparison. The Nixon proposals are filed away in the cabinets of Congressional committees. The Senate and House neither adopted the Nixon concepts nor came up with agreed on counter-legislation.

Even when Congress has voted decentralization programs, the end result seems to be a heavier concentration of federal bureaucracy, not a reduction.

There was talk a while back of the new federalism. Revenue sharing was intended to shift a hefty portion of what's funded in Washington back to the states. A chunk of money was voted. But the federal bureaucracy proceeded to expand, in major areas, the decentralization it was supposed to affect. This federal expansion, of course, was approved by Congress.

Carter and some fellow candidates have also talked of zero budgeting, looking at every federal program and agency from scratch each year.

It is well in this respect to remember that a number of presidents, including Mr. Ford and Mr. Nixon, have sent the Senate and House long lists of programs and agencies that no longer serve a useful purpose. Mr. Nixon and Mr. Ford might have saved everyone a lot of bother by forgetting the exercise before it was started.

The number of agencies, programs and functions cut was so small it's hard to track.

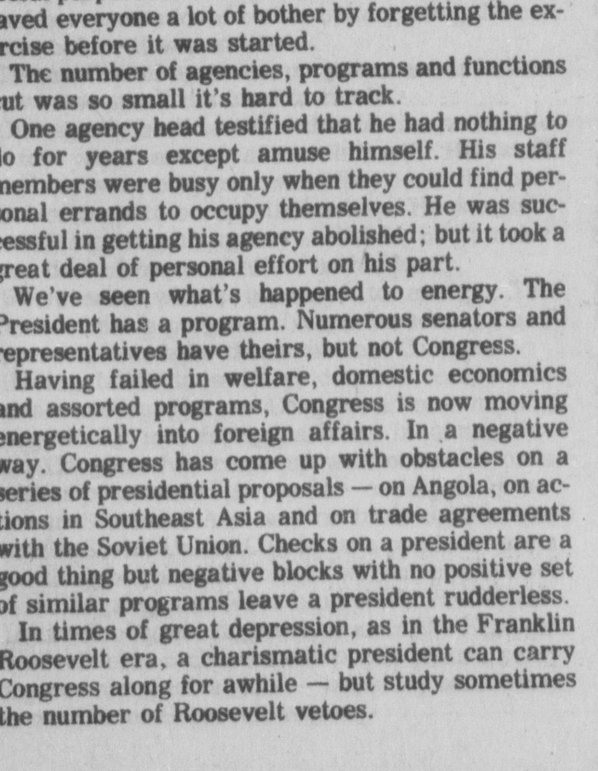

One agency head testified that he had nothing to do for years except amuse himself. His staff members were busy only when they could find personal errands to occupy themselves. He was successful in getting his agency abolished; but it took a great deal of personal effort on his part.

We've seen what's happened to energy. The President has a program. Numerous senators and representatives have theirs, but not Congress.

Having failed in welfare, domestic economics and assorted programs, Congress is now moving energetically into foreign affairs. In a negative way. Congress has come up with obstacles on a series of presidential proposals — on Angola, on actions in Southeast Asia and on trade agreements with the Soviet Union. Checks on a president are a good thing but negative blocks with no positive set of similar programs leave a president rudderless.

In times of great depression, as in the Franklin Roosevelt era, a charismatic president can carry Congress along for awhile — but study sometimes the number of Roosevelt vetoes.

Lulling the public

Dear Editor:

At the present time, the U.S. Energy Research and Development Administration is displaying exhibits at the Montclair Plaza and West Covina Plaza. These exhibits extoll the safety and glories of nuclear power and its dominant role in the U.S. energy future. But why is ERDA doing this? Let's see.

Safeguarding nuclear power is a political issue in California by virtue of Proposition 15 being on the June 8 ballot. The "Yes on 15" Committee is urging each citizen to carefully study the problems and vote in favor of increased public participation (through the legislature) in assessing the societal risks. "Yes on 15" is supported by the Southern California Council of Churches, Sierra Club, Friends of the Earth and many scientists, political organizations and individual citizens.

The "No on 15" Committee erroneously claims that Prop 15 is a shutdown initiative despite their own self contradictory claims that nuclear power is safe and all outstanding problems are being adequately handled. "No on 15" has been funded by Southern California Edison — $50,000, Pacific Gas and Electric — $25,000. General Electric — $20,000, Westinghouse — $25,000, Exxon — $25,000, etc.

So, where does ERDA fit in? They are consciously attempting to lull the California public into a sense of nuclear security that in fact is fragile. ERDA, and its forerunner — the AEC — have promoted the nuclear power industry for twenty years while consistently hiding the problems, the failures, and the dangers. Their exhibits contain false and misleading data which will misinform the California electorate.

ERDA has no place in this campaign. Proposition 15 needs a fair hearing and acceptance by the public — not a subliminal assault by a federal bureaucracy. — Dr. Arleen Forsheit, Biologist, Claremont

Howard Hughes' final day

WASHINGTON — From the tight, secretive, little circle around the late Howard Hughes, we have been given a description of his final years as a penthouse hermit.

Until now, no member of the inner circle has broken the absolute silence he imposed on them. The circumstances surrounding his death, however, have persuaded a few to speak reluctantly about life in Hughes' inner sanctum. They agreed to talk to us on condition that we not identify them.

The nation's richest citizen died the death of a pauper — emaciated, shriveled, dehydrated, with bed sores and a bleeding tumor. Dr. Victor Manual Montemayor Martinez, who was called in to administer to Hughes, concluded: "The patient had been seriously neglected."

A strikingly similar description of Hughes was submited to the sheriff's office by Dr. Harold L. Feikes shortly after the billionaire vanished from Las Vegas more than five years ago. Other witnesses have described Hughes as a wasted invalid, with unkempt, straggly hair and whiskers.

Customs inspector Harold Sawyer, who boarded Hughes' chartered plane in December 1972, told us the recluse had collar-length hair, a full beard and a black hat pulled down over his head. He spoke in a muffled voice.

Yet we spoke to half a dozen other witnesses who have seen Hughes during the past six years. They described him as a tall, thin, distinguished man with a neatly trimmed Van Dyke beard. They said he was cordial, alert, even talkative, with an uncanny memory of past details.

We have concluded there were two Howard Hughes, either the same man in different states, or two different persons. Significantly, we discovered that in the 1960s a movie actor named Brooks Randall had been hired occasionally to impersonate Hughes.

The billionaire's intimates now tell us that the two conflicting descriptions fit the real Howard Hughes at different periods. He had a barber on 24-hour call; sometimes he would submit to regular haircuts and have his beard trimmed into a neat Van Dyke. But other times, he refused to let the barber near him for prolonged spells.

Hughes began to behave strangely in the early 1960s when he still lived in Bel Aire, Calif. He developed a hysterical fear of microbes. Sometimes, he would call his doctor half a dozen times a day to complain about his health.

But when the doctor arrived to examine Hughes, the eccentric billionaire sometimes wouldn't allow the doctor to touch him. From across the bedroom, Hughes would ask questions and have the physician write down the answers. Hughes was so afraid of germs that he wouldn't allow his doctor to open his mouth to give verbal answers in his presence.

The aides who attended Hughes received huge salaries, as much as $75,000 a year, to cater to his whims. He liked to be babied, and they pampered him outrageously, they tell us.

When he chose not to eat, they didn't press him. When he was ready to eat, they would make sure his favorite cookies and beef stroganoff were prepared to his exact specifications.

His body became stiff and brittle from living in a confined space. The aides urged him to move around until a hip injury in London four years ago kept him largely bedridden for the rest of his life.

Aides erected a special antennae in the Bahamas so Hughes could watch U.S. television on a large screen. A Hughes plane would also fly as many as two dozen movies to his retreats each week. Sometimes he would watch movies for 18 hours at a time, viewing them from the perspective of a Hollywood producer-director, one intimate told us.

In the adjoining room, his aides could hear the reverberating sounds of the recluse's favorite Westerns. The volume was always high because he was hard of hearing.

The "Old Man," as his aides called Hughes, regarded them as his adopted family. When it came their turn to leave him for a week to visit their own families, he would invent excuses to keep them near him. One member of his circle complained that he had missed the graduation of all of his children because of his devotion to the Old Man.

There were times that Hughes seemed to want to come out of his self-imposed exile. He walked into the lobby of Vancouver's Bayshore Inn under his own power, for example, pausing only to tie the drawstring on his pajama bottom. The hotel guests and a Japanese window washer didn't seem to notice him.

For a time, Hughes enjoyed staring across his balcony to watch the planes at a nearby airport. But an aide suggested that an enterprising photographer with a telephoto lens might be able to snap a picture of Hughes from another building. The curtains were drawn, and Hughes never again looked out of his window.

Why did his devoted aides neglect him in the end? The only explanation they can offer is that they were strictly obedient. When he issued instructions not to send him to a hospital, it didn't occur to them to disregard the instructions when he lapsed into his periodic stupors. Perhaps the only real decision they ever made, one insider conceded, was to fly the dying Hughes back to the U.S.

In a way, Hughes may have ordered his own death by not allowing his closest aides to help him. But U.S. authorities aren't satisfied with this explanation. They want to know whether the quirky Hughes was competent to run his $2 billion empire, why a guardian wasn't appointed and who made the multimillion-dollar financial decisions.

The land of fruit and nuts

The restless, for centuries, have migrated seeking greener pastures. Historically, that movement has been from east to west. Around the world and across our nation, anybody running from anything ran west. Until they all piled up against the Pacific Ocean in California.

These restive ones — seeking "gold," "security," "the fountain of youth" or seeking God — were easy prey for pocket-picking card sharks, medicine men and cultists.

But if your headlines and my mail indicate a greater concentration of unconventional cults in California — there are some everywhere. From the Manson family to the so-called Unification Church, the cults are demanding and getting from their young disciples a degree of discipline enforced by neither their parents nor their government.

Kids are kept in virtual slavery; they sell merchandise door-to-door for long hours and turn all the money over to their "leaders." The leader claims to be a messiah, claims to have a direct line to God.

The recruit may have to work hard all day to finance his high-living leaders, then stay up half the night while "spiritual lessons" are pounded into him.

The boom is over for the religious cults for now. Not all will disappear but most are already in decline. The hit-and-run gurus are increasingly recognized for what they are. Their glamor is gone.

The "great lost UFO" cult — which might have been stillborn except for the fascination of the news media with these characters who promised their followers a journey to another planet — has run out of gas.

Its followers are dropping out, straggling home after a winter of spiritual wandering which ended in disillusion. I'm still receiving letters from anguished parents saying their children have been turned into mental zombies and tricked into performing slave labor so that misleader Sun Myung Moon can live like a pharoah on an $11 million annual budget.

He's been headquartering in the United States where he has first Amendment protection he'd be denied in most countries. But his dropouts are about-facing now, organizing their own countermovement to enlighten the Moonies, Children of God, Divine Light Missionaries and the Hare Krishna clan.

That your young flocked to these misleaders should tell us all something: To the lonely it is comforting to "belong"; to the uncertain and confused, it is reassuring to be told what to think and what to do.

The discipline which the young require and which they did not get in their compromising churches and hypocritical homes — they had to seek from self-anointed messiahs.

Just in jest

No mother would ever do it! No daughter would ever say it! The only possible place it could happen would be in a television commercial. — The mother has just arrived to spend a few days with her daughter. They are unpacking mom's suitcase, and suddenly the daughter notices. In amazement and disbelief she questions: — "You brought your own toilet paper, mother?"

But that's just one of many obnoxious television commercials extolling the virtues of bathroom tissue. Equally as nauseating is the commercial where the imbecillic grocery store manager goes rushing all about the place chiding customers for squeezing the Charmin. In fact, it is almost as tasteless and improbable as the commercial which depicts an entire family writing notes to each other on the bathroom toilet roll. — "Twenty feet longer than the two other leading brands!" boasts another of television's latrine oriented commercial masterpieces.

With all that on which to base their conclusion, it's no wonder foreigners viewing American television for the first time come away firmly convinced that this country is populated mainly by mormons with bathroom tissue fixations. Who other than toilet tissue obsessed idiots would spend most of their time testing toilet paper rolls for cushy softness?

Dollars key to transportation

Editor's note: During his hospitalization, top state officials are filling in for Earl G. Waters. Today his guest is William S. Weber, Executive Secretary, State Transportation Board.

The complexities of modern transportation — intertwined as they are with environmental and economic factors — have created considerable confusion in the public's mind.

To try to bring some order out of chaos, the State Transportation Board is now working on a multipurpose California Transportation Plan in an effort to determine what levels of government should be doing what things affecting transportation and to establish priorities of state agencies.

While the process of preparing the plan, scheduled to be adopted by the board before the end of 1976, appears at times to be a frustrating exercise in semantics, it is important for the board to be careful with even the smallest details. The reason is that the plan which is finally adopted will shape and mold the development of transportation in California for a long time to come.

Moreover, while California is not the first state to develop a statewide transportation plan, it is probably blazing a pioneering trail in addressing the issues so comprehensively, and, because of that, the California Plan undoubtedly will influence decisions in other states.

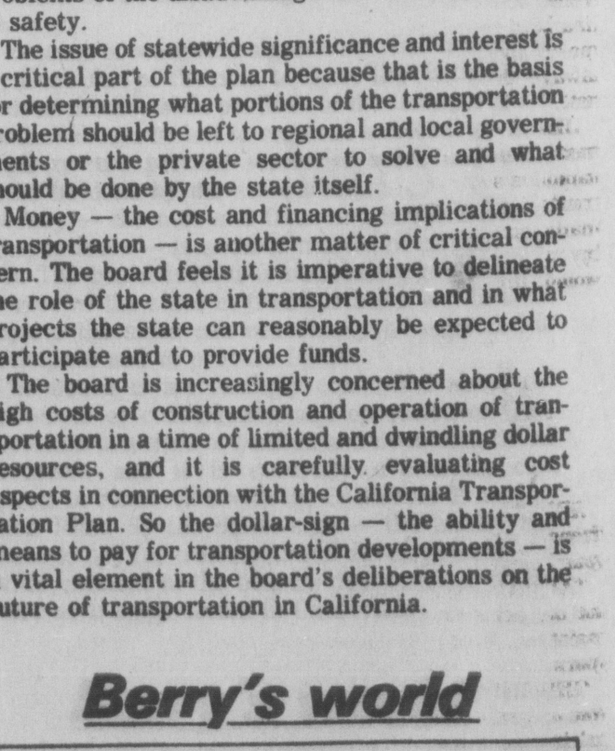

Elements to be covered in the California Transportation Plan will include the effects and impacts of transportation upon land use, air quality, energy, noise, unique fiscal and cultural resources, and the economy of the state. One extremely significant element is the important role of the private sector, which handles almost all of the goods or freight movement in California and much of the intercity passenger movement. Other aspects requiring special attention include the transportation problems of the disadvantaged and the importance of safety.

The issue of statewide significance and interest is a critical part of the plan because that is the basis for determining what portions of the transportation problem should be left to regional and local governments or the private sector to solve and what should be done by the state itself.

Money — the cost and financing implications of transportation — is another matter of critical concern. The board feels it is imperative to delineate the role of the state in transportation and in what projects the state can reasonably be expected to participate and to provide funds.

The board is increasingly concerned about the high costs of construction and operation of transportation in a time of limited and dwindling dollar resources, and it is carefully evaluating cost aspects in connection with the California Transportation Plan. So the dollar-sign — the ability and means to pay for transportation developments — is a vital element in the board's deliberations on the future of transportation in California.

Ann Landers

In defense of sex education

Dear Ann Landers: The letter signed "Wishing Information" sent me running to my typewriter. I am a high school senior who wants you to know that almost every bid of valid information I learned about sex came from your column.

My parents never told me one thing. The stuff I learned from the kids at school was mostly wrong or so half-baked you wouldn't believe it. Here are some so-called "facts" I picked up in junior high, as well as high school. (Mind you, these kids are from 13 to 18 years of age):

1—A girl can get pregnant only one day out of every month.

2—The first time a couple has sex the girl can get pregnant, but she is safe the second or third time the same day or evening.

3—It is not possible to get V.D. more than once. The medication that cures V.D. gets into the system and makes you immune for life.

4—If a girl does not have a climax, she will not get pregnant.

5—It is not necessary to take the Pill regularly. If a girl takes it just before she has intercourse she is safe for 24 hours.

6—If a pregnant girl eats a lemon every day for two weeks, she will have a miscarriage.

I hope you will publish my letter. Some teenagers will laugh at it, but you'd be surprised how many kids actually believe this junk. They are desperate for information. So please hang in there, Ann. — True Blue Fan

Dear True: I plan to. In the meantime, we need a first-rate sex-education program in public schools — taught by competent instructors who know how to present the facts in a straight-forward but dignified, non-clinical manner.

Dear Ann Landers: I have this friend who makes me so mad I acutally get heartburn. Bernice is quite deaf and wears a hearing aid. She loves to argue. When Bernice realizes she is losing an argument she turns off her hearing aid and says, "Shut up. I can't hear you." This drives me up the wall. How can I cope? — Bicarb In Bay City

Dear Bicarb: Fight fire with fire. When Bernice begins to get huffy, stop talking. Just move your lips. She'll think her hearing aid has gone kaflooey and while she is trying to adjust it, speak your piece.

Dear Ann Landers: How much is a man supposed to take? We have been married 10 years and have two children, eight and three years of age.

We have a lovely home, but it always looks like a pigpen. I'm ashamed to have people over. She can never get it all together. Although our grocery bills are sky high we seem to be eating garbage. Everything is either overcooked or overdone. I always put the children to bed, otherwise they would walk around till midnight. My wife is in the kitchen doing dishes until 10:30 p.m.

Most of the laundry is sent out and a cleaning woman comes in once a month. What my wife does all day I can't imagine.

Do you think things would be better if she took a job outside the home and we hired a housekeeper? I'd like your opinion. — Fed Up

Dear Fed: Does your wife want to work outside the home? You give me no clue whatever as to what her wishes are. Obviously she is a very poor housekeeper and you are not happy with the state of your marriage.

It's a safe bet she isn't happy either. I suggest joint counseling. The solution may be a part-time job and a part-time housekeeper — who can cook.

Ann Landers discusses teenage drinking — its myths, its realities. Learn the facts by reading "Booze and You — For Teenagers Only," by Ann Landers. Send 50 cents in coin and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 1400, Elgin, Ill. 60120.

Horse thieves hit southwest

Horse thieves are busier now hereabouts than they've been in a long time. Blame Europe's high prices for horse meat. About $2.50 a pound is not all that unusual over there. As many as two dozen horses a week reportedly are knocked off by the rustiers in Texas and Oklahoma.

To the membership roll of the Proper Job Club, our Language man as added Dr. William A. Foote, a podiatrist of Morrisville, Pa.

Young lady, if you lived in China, you'd probably put hardboiled eggs into your newborn baby's first bath for good luck. Such is the custom there.

CLOSING TIME

Q. "We held our last family reunion on a Sunday in the yard by the pool. At exactly 4 o'clock in the afternoon, my husband started stacking the rented chairs and folding up the rented tables. He even went so far as to shake out the patio cushions and tip the wrought-iron chairs on the pool deck against the wrought-iron tables there. Everybody, I mean everybody, climbed into their cars and went home. Ask your Love and War man if this was fitting behavior?"

A. Quite fitting, he says, for a busboy and customers in the rathskeller at 1, 2 or 3 a.m., depending on the local closing laws. Our L. and W. man thinks your husband was naughty, your guests most reasonable.

SHOPLIFTED

Leading the list of items most shoplifted from department stores is lingeries.

No big sister should forget that the Russian word for brother is "brat."

When with a woman, an old-fashioned fellow, before he lights up a smoke, may ask if she objects. A woman smoker who puts that query to anybody, however, is a rarity.

House for house, no city in the country has as many color TV sets as does the Texas town of Lubbock, surveys show. Nine out of 10 homes there are so equipped. Nationwide, three out of four households have color sets.

It was under an arbor of roses where the Greek fighters of 479 B.C. secretly planned the defeat of the Persians. The Romans translated "under the rose" to mean "secretly," therefore. And they adopted a custom of hanging a rose over any council where those present were sworn to secrecy. We still use the expression, in fact: sub-rosa.

Kittens and tots just don't mix

DEAR DR. MILLER: I've always considered cats dangerous toys for young children, but now my granddaughter wants a kitten so badly that maybe I could be persuaded to get her one. If you consider kittens safe for children, under what circumstances? What, ideally, should be done for a kitten before it's given to a child? — S.T.

DEAR S.T.: A kitten is not safe for a child, nor vice-versa, if that child is so young it can think of a kitten only in terms of a toy. Until the child is old enough to realize the kitten has a life of its own, needs consideration and can suffer pain (as well as inflict it), they do not belong toegther. When a child can understand these things and is helped in this process by patient, considerate parents, then a kitten can and does make a very desirable pet and companion. I recommend a veterinary examination to determine that the kitten is sound of mind and body. The doctor would check to determine whether or not there may be diseases transmissible to the child, i.e. skin disease such as ringworm, and stomach and intestinal roundworms, which are common. If these parasites are present, it is certainly preferable to worm such a kitten prior to introducing it into the new home.

DEAR DR. MILLER: Is it feasible to use a lean-to greenhouse as an aviary? — G.L.

DEAR G.L.: Such greenhouses often are used as aviaries. Lots of light and accompanying luxuriant plant growth seem a natural environment in which to add birds. These real advantages exist. Unfortunately, aviaries are equipped with built-in problems, too. The primary one concerns the violent climatic changes. The humidity often fluctuates markedly. This in itself is not too bad, but over 24-hour periods there may be severe drafts and drastic temperature changes of 30 degrees or more. This puts severe stress on birds as they try to regulate their own body temperature. Occasionally you will find a greenhouse which has licked these problems and therefore provides an excellent aviary setting. Usually, however, a greenhouse is not for the birds.

DEAR DR. MILLER: It's so disappointing every day to come home for lunch and find Honey Bear, my hamster, in a bad mood. She's over it enough to have dinner with me at night, and then we're good friends for the evening. I always think the next day will be better, but it isn't. Why not? — V. R.

DEAR V.R.: Honey Bear hasn't had enough sleep by noon. Being nocturnal, naturally she needs that noontime nap plus some sleep on either end of it, and resents being roused out at such an hour. For her, the day begins normally enough with her breakfast time. That's dinner time by your clock, and it's understandable her disposition would improve from then on.

Nobody here but Mrs. Nobody

Entertainers know when they've made it.

They're billed in Las Vegas with only one name on the marquee: Elvis! Sammy! Cher!

They occupy the center desk on "Hollywood Squares."

They leave early on the Carson show.

But how does a wife and mother know it when she becomes a Superstar — a person in her own right?

I'll know.

One day the phone will ring and it will be for me.

I'll see my child in public, speak to him and he'll recognize me.

One of these mornings, out of four cars in the driveway one of them will be running and I'll get it.

Or the kids will set the table and someone else will get the bent fork.

I'll go out to dinner and no one will lean over and whisper just before the bill, "You cashed a check today, didn't you?"

Or I'll go through an entire evening without someone asking me for a nose tissue.

I'll cash a check at the supermarket and not have to leave a blood specimen.

I'll go through the express line with seven items.

I'll know I've broken out of the domestic mold when Klinger, the loony on "M*A*S*H," isn't wearing a dress that I wore to a wedding the week before.

When my calendar has something more on it for the month of April than "Color Eggs."

When my husband stops saying at a party by way of introduction, "You remember my wife, don't you?" and they say, "No."

I'll know I've become something special when someone turns to me before flipping the TV dial and asks, "Are you watching this?"

When I can have new medicine for my cold instead of using up what's left in the medicine chest.

When I can ask for a "doggy bag" and some smart aleck doesn't say, "You want to eat it here or to go?"

I don't know when, but one of these days it will happen — the respect I so richly deserve will be heaped upon me.

The other night my husband came in looked around and said, "Isn't there anyone home?"

"I'm here," I said.

"C'mon. You know what I mean."

I knew.

Dr. Lamb

Puzzling process of aging

DEAR DR. LAMB — My mother at age 61, an intelligent, active woman, developed what was diagnosed as cerebral atrophy. Four years later she had gradually deteriorated to the point where she is a body without a mind, unable to speak or feed herself and apparently unable to recognize us. There is no family history of such an illness, so we assumed perhaps a head injury was behind it. However, another member of the family is now showing similar symptoms. Can you tell us what causes this condition?

DEAR READER — I understand thoroughly your distress. I wish there were some good answer to give you. Your mother's condition is the same as that which occurs in many older people. Whether it begins early or late the changes are approximately the same. I don't need to detail these because they are all to familiar in our society. In medical circles we call these dementia and sometimes senile dementia, although it must be stated that this condition can occur at a relatively young age, specifically in later middle age in some people. Women seem to be more susceptible to this disorder at an early age than are men.

Most of these disorders are associated with acutal changes in the cells of the brain, and the condition can occur in individuals with brain injury as may be seen sometimes in boxers who have repeated excessive head injuries. The development of symptoms may be gradual or more rapid. One of the earliest signs is the diminished ability for problem solving. Individuals lose the ability to cope with new problems. Stated simply, they lose their previous capacity to learn even though they may still be abel to handle old familiar tasks.

We do not know what causes this condition, but these disorders are usually included as part of the picture of aging. However, medicine has long had a tendency to classify disorders that are not well understood as aging, only to find later that they are true diseases. A good example here is the common heart attack. We now know that heart diesase can begin in young men in their early twenties and thus is hardly a disease of aging.

Sometimes disease of the arteries to the brain contributes to this problem. In other instances, the degeneration of the brain cells seems to be independent of disease to the arteries.

What we really need is a better understanding of the fundamental process of aging and how to prevent it. The truth is, we are very close to being able to control biological aging. That statement may startle some people, but we already understand a great deal of the regeneration process, how cells are replaced, and even how to make duplicates of frogs from the nucleus of an intestinal cell (popularly called cloning). Those who want information on what we understand about aging can send 50 cents for The Health Letter, number 1-7, Perpetual Youth, Aging. Send a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for mailing. Address your letter to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

What people say

". . . (the month of) March was (Mayor of Philadelphia) Frank Rizzo's Rubicon. He stood naked for all to see. Those who are associated with him now, in any endeavor, no matter what its purpose, have had ample warning of the kind of future he brings. They cannot plead ignorance. They are a part of his apparatus. That is the way history and their children will remember them."

— Excerpt from an editorial in Philadelphia Magazine after Mayor Rizzo's supporters prevented those employes attempting to enter the office of a newspaper criticizing the mayor.

"It is because we were hunters, because we killed for a living, because we matched wits against the whole of the animal world, that we had the wit to survive even a world of our creation."

By BERNICE BEDE OSOL
For Wednesday, April 21, 1976

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Keeping company with friends who have extravagant tastes could severely dent your budget today. Don't try to ape the big spenders.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Your goals for today will not be achieved if you team up with nonproductive associates. Work with those whose aims are similar to yours.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Don't convince yourself that you urgently need something you can do without. Impulsive purchases aren't likely to be bargains.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Major changes should not be made on the spur of the moment today. Stop to consider what the aftereffects could be.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Agreements made in a hasty manner today are unlikely to survive. Both parties should take time to iron out the details.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Conditions having a relationship to your work or career are apt to be somewhat unstable today. Be on your toes. Don't make wrong moves.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Your luck has its limitations today, especially if you hope to get a large return for a small outlay.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) In order to accomplish your ends today you may make more concessions than is necessary. What you gain will be nominal.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You could be a bit forgetfull today. Your mind will be on too many things. As a precaution, write down what's important.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Usually you have a pretty good handle on your resources, but today you could blow what you should be saving.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) To advance your interest today self-discipline will be required, or else you're likely to change direction just once too often.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Rely on your logic today rather than your hunches, particularly if you have to make a judgment on a matter of importance.

Your Birthday, April 21, 1976:

This coming year you may be exposed to several opportunities, but they will be of a fleeting nature. Don't rely upon Lady Luck to do a job you should do for yourself.

By Oswald & James Jacoby

The death of John Crawford at the age of 60 deprived bridge of one of the greatest and most colorful players. He won his first national pair tournament with Oswald Jacoby in 1939 and his total of 37 national championships is second only to Jacoby's 44.

He called Oswald from Monte Carlo last summer to say he was finally playing in a tournament with Jim, the second generation, and expected some day to play with James Oswald Jr., the third generation. We regret the third generation will never have that privilege.

Here is a hand that won an important IMP match for Johnny. His play of the jack of clubs at trick one was instantaneous and most effective. West continued the suit. John took his ace, lost the diamond finesse, but had his nine tricks.

At the other table South played low. West shifted to a heart and the defense wound up with three hearts, one club, one diamond and a plus score.

Ask the Jacobys

In a recent article we showed the dealer's hand as

♠ A K ♥ 7 4 ♦ 10 7 5 4 ♣ K J 10 6 5

and said, "They were playing a forcing-club system, so South could not open one club.

A reader has asked, "Why couldn't he?"

We neglected to mention that in their forcing-club system the one-club opening guaranteed at least 16 high-card points and this hand held only 11.

BACK AGAIN — James Bullington, who won second place in piano in the John Child Walker music competition last year, talks over the 1976 contest with Susan Nader, center, and Mary Scott Angell who tied for first in last year's string competition. All three plan to enter the contest again this year.

Open category added in Walker contest

A new "open" category for instruments has been added this year for the first time to the John Child Walker Musical Talent Competition sponsored by the Pomona Valley Musicians Club.

The new category will include xylophone, percussion, accordion, mandolin, banjo, ukelele, guitar and other instruments. The regular categories are piano, organ, voice, wind instruments, string instruments and composition. More than 80 music students competed for $600 in cash and trophies and certificates last year.

The deadline for entering has been extended to Sunday. Applications can be obtained from Mrs. Mildred Turney, 1430 N. Mountain Ave., Claremont, 624-8666, and at local music stores.

Preliminary auditions will be held at the First Presbyterian Church, Pomona, at 10 a.m. May 8. Final judging will be in the Thatcher Music Building, Pomona College, at 10 a.m. May 22.

The competition performances are open to the public without charge.

Dance group at MSAC

The Utah Repertory Dance Theater will present a program of modern dance in Gymnasium 3 at Mt. San Antonio College at 8 p.m. Saturday.

The variety show will feature dances that are contemporary and classical. It will also offer music and expressive lights — from brightest whites to darkest blacks, pastels, fluorescents and rainbows.

Founded in 1966, the Utah Repertory Dance Theater has a unique artistic structure which allows each member a voice in artistic direction and gives all dancers the opportunity to perform, teach and choreograph.

Kay Clark, a founding member of the company, will present "Women Waiting," a touching quartet elaborating different degrees of need and patience. Linda C. Smith, also a founding member, choreographed "Snack Pack," a spoof of pop art, commercials and modern dance itself.

The troupe, whose style is country and western, includes 50 works by 22 choreographers in its repertoire.

Tickets are available at the MSAC Community Services Office, Wallich's Music City and Liberty ticket agencies.

Pianist to give free recital

Pianist Danny Daniel will present a masters recital in Bridges Hall, Pomona College, at 8:15 tonight. Admission is free.

Daniel graduated from the University of Redlands in 1973 with a B.M. in piano performance and is currently completing an M.A. degree at the Claremont Graduate School. He has studied piano under Aube Tzerko since 1972.

A resident of Redlands, he is employed by Ralph Pierce Music, and is also a full-time private teacher of piano.

The program includes Sonata in C Major, No. 3 by Beethoven; Ballade in G Minor and two mazurkas by Chopin; two etudes by Scriabin, and "Danzas Argentinas" by Ginastera.

MERRY MUSIC-MAKER — Seven-year-old Jennifer Laredo seems delighted after playing a duet with her mother, distinguished concert pianist Ruth Laredo, at Alice Tully Hall in New York's Lincoln Center Friday night. The four-handed piece was "Happy Birthday," the only selection in the girl's repertoire.

'The Baker's Wife' to open CLO season

The new David Merrick musical, "The Baker's Wife," starring Topol, will open the season for the Los Angeles Civic Light Opera May 11 in the Pavilion of the Los Angeles Music Center.

Based on Marcel Pagnol's French film classic of the early '40s, "The Baker's Wife" has a book by Joseph Stein and music and lyrics by Stephen Schwartz. The musical comedy — set in a French village — deals with its characters and the scandal created when their incomparable but temperamental baker discovers that his wife has run off with a younger man.

Topol, the internationally-celebrated London stage and screen star of "Fiddler on the Roof," will make his American stage debut in the new musical, in the starring role of the baker. He began his career in Israel playing a variety of roles from the classics to contemporary works and starred in the award-winning film, "Sallah."

Stein is author of "Fiddler on the Roof," the longest running musical in Broadway history, which he later adapted for the screen. Among his many Broadway credits are "Take Me Along," "Plain and Fancy" and "Enter Laughing."

Schwartz created the music and lyrics for the musical hits, "Godspell," "Pippin" and "The Magic Show," and collaborated with Leonard Bernstein on the English texts for Bernstein's "Mass." He also wrote the title song for the Broadway hit, "Butterflies Are Free."

Director Joseph Hardy, whose credits include the long-running smash, "You're a Good Man, Charlie Brown" "Play It Again, Sam," "Child's Play" and "Bob and Ray . . . the Two and Only," on Broadway, most recently staged "The Night of the Iguana," "Ring Around the Moon," "Cyrano de Bergerac," "The Sound of Music" and "The King and I" at the Los Angeles Music Center.

Merrick has given Broadway every kind of theatrical fare: drama, comedy, social satire, musical, opera and original and creative works that cannot be confined to ordinary classification. His productions have won 20 Drama Critics Awards and a like number of Tonys, and he individually won several Antoinette Perry Awards. At its New York opening, "The Baker's Wife" will be his 82nd Broadway show.

Stars return

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Two longtime Hollywood performers are returning to films — Lana Turner and Harriet Hilliard.

Miss Turner has been announced as star of "Birthmark," an Avco-Embassy release directed by David Miller. Filmed on California locations, the movie also features Gig Young, Celeste Holm, Robert Alda and Meredith Baxter.

Miss Hilliard is returning to acting for the first time since the death last year of her husband and co-star, Ozzie Nelson. She will appear in a two-hour film for ABC television, "Smashup on Interstate 5," produced by Filmways.

Skating tryouts slated

Seeking talented young ice skaters for its nation-touring show, Ice Capades will hold tryouts for Southern California skaters at 10:30 p.m. Friday, April 30 and May 7 at the Los Angeles Sports Arena.

Tryouts are held in every city the popular ice show stops at during its tour. Ice Capades opens at the arena Wednesday. The tryouts follow the three announced performances.

Minimum age for male and female skaters is 17.

Benet drama at S. B'no.

The San Bernardino Civic Light Opera will present Stephen Vincent Benet's Pulitzer Prize drama, "John Brown's Body," in the California Theater of Performing Arts, San Bernardino, at 8:15 p.m. April 30.

The play will star Rock Hudson, Claire Trevor and Leif Erickson. It will be directed by John Houseman, winner of an Academy Award for "The Paper Chase."

Tickets are on sale at the box office, all ticket agencies and the Ontario Chamber of Commerce.

Hudson, star of television's long-running series, McMillan and Wife, last appeared at the California Theater of Performing Arts opposite Carol Burnett in the sell-out musical, "I Do, I Do."

Miss Trevor, star of many motion pictures, won an Academy Award for her performance in "Key Largo," with the late Humphrey Bogart.

A look forward to the playoffs

With the prep baseball season now into the home stretch, a little speculation about the upcoming CIF playoffs seems to be in order.

The CIF Southern Section office has announced that the playoffs in the 1A Division will open May 11, and the competition in the 2A, 3A and 4A brackets May 14. 1A finals will go May 21, with the finals in the other brackets to be held June 2. This year's 3A and 4A finals are tentatively set for Anaheim Stadium, with the 2A and 1A divisions at sites still to be determined.

It was also announced that the playoff fields for the three upper divisions will consist of 32 teams, with the 1A playoff being a 16-team bracket.

Based upon that, the Hacienda League figures to be represented by at least three and possibly even four teams in the playoffs. There are only 11 2A leagues in CIF this season, and since the Hacienda is regarded as one of the strongest in that division it should be well-represented on the opening day of playoff action May 14.

Right now, that loop is a five-team scramble between defending champ Bonita, Alta Loma, Walnut, Royal Oak and San Dimas. The Bearcats hold a one-game lead with five league games remaining, with Alta Loma and Walnut tied for second.

Ontario, Sierra Vista and Gladstone are out of the running for a playoff spot, but any one of the other clubs could wind up atop the H.L. standings. Bonita appears to have the best talent but the 'Cats are in a mid-season slump and this week's league outings will be crucial ones for all concerned.

Battle looms in SAL

The playoff picture is not quite as rosy in the San Antonio League. There are 14 3A leagues entering teams in the playoffs, which means that no one league will have more than three entries.

Actually, the SAL could well wind up with only two playoff spots, as was the case last year. No team in the loop has an outstanding overall record, and in truth the SAL does not seem to be as strong a 3A league as, say, the Sierra League.

If only two SAL teams are picked, its going to be a battle royal for those spots. With six league dates remaining, any one of six teams could possibly finish first or second. Montclair is clinging to a one-game lead in the standings, but Claremont, Pomona, Upland, Garey and Damien have all shown the ability to beat anyone on a given day.

In fact, Damien turned in the best performance of any SAL team in the recently completed Pomona Elks Tourney, and the Spartans appear to have the hot hand right now.

The valley's lone 4A school, Chaffey, figured to be almost a shoo-in for a playoff berth prior to the start of league play, but the Tigers have been anything but overwhelming in the Citrus Belt League. Helping their chances is the fact that no other CBL entry has been able to dominate the league, and the fact that 12 4A leagues will feed the 32-team playoff field.

Even so, the Tigers may well have to finish first or second in the six-team CBL to insure themselves of a playoff spot.

Only local team which seems assured of a berth in the small 1A playoff field would be American Christian. The Minutemen have gone unbeaten in the Christian League, and appear to be clearly the class team in that five-team loop. Even so, ACHS will have to finish first in that loop in order to gain a playoff spot. There are 14 1A leagues vying for the 16 playoff spots and the CIF will surely fill the extra two 1A berths from a stronger league, like the Arrowhead or Olympic.

Webb is still in the running for the Arrowhead title, but the Gauls have yet to prove themselves against the tougher A.L. teams Notre Dame, Aquinas and Big Bear. Realistically, best bet for coach Les Perry's crew would be a second in the rugged Arrowhead loop and hopefully a shot at one of those two extra 1A berths.

Congrats to Elks

While on the subject of prep baseball, congratulations are once again in order for Pomona Elks Lodge Number 789 for the outstanding job lodge members did in running the Elks Tourney. In spite of delays caused by rain, the tourney came off without a hitch, which just proves that tourney chairman Phil LaPierre and his crew have the running of the mammoth 32-team affair down to a science.

Only complaint from this writer would be the cold, rainy weather the tourney always seems to draw. Phil, try to warm things up a bit next year, huh?

Bonds' debut inspires Angels

Bobby gets three hits

By BILL LANGLEY
PB Sports Editor

ANAHEIM — Inspired by the debut of their new leader, the Angels made it exciting for 14,201 Family Night fans at Anaheim Stadium Monday.

The long-awaited debut of slugger Bobby Bonds in an Angel uniform was only part of the story in the Halos' 9-4 victory over the Baltimore Orioles.

Besides getting three singles in five at-bats from Bonds, the Angels also were delighted to present lefthanded ace Frank Tanana with his first victory of the 1976 campaign.

Tanana's cause was helped greatly by Dave Chalk's base-loaded triple in the seventh inning which broke open a tight 5-4 game.

But all the fun started after Chalk rounded the bases to score an extra run when Baltimore catcher Dave Duncan dropped the ball at the plate trying to tag Chalk out.

The beanball war started.

Catcher Andy Etchebarren, the next batter, was promptly struck on the left elbow by a pitch from Baltimore's Wayne Garland, a former teammate.

When the Orioles came to bat in the 8th, Tanana sent Mark Belanger diving into the dirt, prompting both benches and bullpens to flood the field.

As usual in baseball fights, nothing much happened except for strong words but the tension was high.

"I pitch in," Tanana explained. "That's all it amounts to. I guess I got it in more than the Orioles liked. It's obvious they went after Etchebarren. What's good for one is good for the other. That's the way this game is played."

Etchebarren was convinced he was a target.

"How can they say it was unintentional after the collision at home?", he asked. "I think it was Garland's idea."

All of the extra excitement overshadowed Bonds' debut after missing the opening nine games of the season because of a chip fracture of his right hand.

The slugger from Riverside struck out in the first inning but he later banged out three clean singles and scored a pair of runs.

"I was just real happy to play tonight," Bonds said. "I couldn't ask for more. That standing ovation before the game really hit the spot. I think I'm going to like Anaheim. I want to stay here a long time."

Even though Bobby was impressive in his first game under the halo, he still isn't at full strength.

"It will probably take two more weeks," he said. "I'm not swinging the bat with the usual quick snap. But I was surprised at my timing."

Tanana got off to a shaky start when rookie first baseman Andres Mora belted an 0-3 pitch over the leftfield fence for a two-run homer in the first.

However, the Angels came back with three in their half of the first and chased starter Mike Cuellar with two more in the third to take a 5-2 lead.

Baltimore cut it to 5-4 in the fourth on Duncan's two-run single after Tanana hit Bobby Grich with a pitch and walked Mora.

Tanana settled down to allow only two harmless singles the rest of the way to finish up with a five-hitter highlighted by 12 strikeouts.

"I finally got into my groove," Tanana explained. "I'm greatly relieved because I was very concerned. I felt something was missing but I found it tonight."

Singles by Jerry Remy and Bonds plus a walk to Bruce Bochte set up Chalk's triple. The ball hit the leftfield foul pole and bounced toward center. Chalk continued around the bases and scored when Duncan couldn't hold onto the ball.

"I've been kind of disappointed in myself because I haven't been hitting in the clutch," Chalk said. "Last year I hit in the clutch. It so happened Garland threw me a fastball and I was lucky enough to hit it. I thought it might have enough height to get out."

FUN AT THE BIG A

This was the scene at Anaheim Stadium Monday night in the eighth inning after both benches emptied onto the field after the Angels' Frank Tanana brushed back Baltimore's Mark Belanger. Angels and Tanana enjoyed a 9-4 victory over the Orioles in the wild contest.

Astros belt Don Sutton

Progress Bulletin
Sports
Pomona, California ■ Tuesday, April 20, 1976

HOUSTON (AP) — The Houston Astros, ridiculed as the worst team in baseball when they finished 43½ games behind world champion Cincinnati last season, were enjoying a respite today—they're in first place in the National League Western Division.

The Astros pelted Dodgers starter Don Sutton for eight runs in the first and fourth innings Monday night and held on for an 8-3 victory over Los Angeles to move ahead of the idle Reds and Atlanta into first place.

While Houston is in the lofty first place position, Astros Manager Bill Virdon isn't getting light-headed over a surprising string that now includes six victories in seven games.

"It's a good feeling being in first place but it's hard to visualize this team making up 43½ games in one season," said Virdon, ignoring the emotion of the hour. "Anything can happen in a season but we're sure not 43 games behind this season."

Dodgers starter and loser Don Sutton would agree. The veteran Los Angeles pitcher got a stiff dose of what was to come in the first inning when he yielded four runs off three hits, including reserve outfielder Jose Cruz' three-run triple.

Catcher Cliff Johnson also had a run-scoring single off Sutton in the inning.

Houston broke loose on Sutton again in the fourth inning with four more runs on Larry Milbourne's single, a grounder by Enos Cabell and Bob Watson's two-run single.

Houston starter Larry Dierker failed to finish the game again but claimed his second straight victory after an opening series fiasco against Cincinnati when he failed to get a batter out.

Dierker left after the seventh and was replaced by Larry Hardy and Mike Barlow, who spoiled the shutout by yielding three runs.

"I felt I could have finished and got the shutout," said Dierker, the winningest pitcher in Astros history. "But it was a good decision on Bill's (Virdon's) part. I didn't feel too tired but it was time to come out.

"I'd thrown 120 pitches and the most I'd previously thrown this season was 85 in spring training. When I go past 130 pitches I lose some of my stuff anyway."

Cruz, who got only his second hit of the season in nine-at-bats, said his triple was lucky.

"I hit a home run foul just before my triple," Cruz said. "It was a lucky triple. I'm always hitting the ball at somebody. Tonight I was lucky and hit it away."

Hardy yielded two runs to the Dodgers on a wild pitch and Ron Cey's run-scoring single. Dusty Baker's infield single off Barlow scored the slumping Dodgers' other run.

MSAC retains homey outlook

By DAN BERGER
AP Sports Writer

The past athletes of the meet indicate that the Mt. San Antonio College Relays has a great heritage: Al Oerter, Bob Hayes, Tom Farrell, Art Walker, George Young, John Carlos, Randy Matson, Lee Evans, Al Feuerbach, Steve Williams.

Yet down through the years, directors Don Ruh and Hilmer Lodge have tried to run a homey kind of track meet. Ruh admits he doesn't have the money, the track or the tradition to compete with the Drake and Penn relays for the name athletes.

Thus the list of entries each year has been growing less prestigious in this meet and Saturday's 18th annual Mt. SAC Relays, while still a fine attraction, doesn't have the glitter of the East, where the Penn and Drake meets are scheduled for the same day.

World record holder Dave Roberts, one of four 18-foot-pole vaulters entered here, and sprinter Don Quarrie highlight the meet.

Meanwhile, the Drake Relays at Des Moines and the Penn Relays in Philadelphia have drawn considerably betterknown athletes.

The directors of both the Drake and Penn meets have larger budgets and can fly in all sorts of talent from around the nation. In addition, Ruh says, he can't pay the "expense money" asked by certain athletes, some of whom live locally and should get just $20 or so to get here and home again.

It's well known that many athletes receive first-class air fare by meet directors and then travel coach — and pocket the difference. So a Southern California athlete has little incentive to compete here if he can get an invitation from the East.

And the Eastern meets have other things going for them, too, such as fast artificial tracks and tradition — this will be the Penn Relays' 82nd annual affair; Drake has been going 67 years.

The junior college track here was once considered among the fastest in the world. It is crushed brick and in the early 1960s Arizona State's mile relay team sped over it for a clocking of 3:04.5, which then was a world record.

But when artificial surfaces were perfected a few years later, Drake and Penn sponsors spent the money and had them installed. The Mt. SAC sponsors did not have the money and the dark red track is still the same, fast but not fast enough say the sprinters.

In addition, Walnut is a tiny community 30 miles east of Los Angeles and only diehard track fans know how to find the track.

Still, this meet usually produces a few well-known late entrants and some fine results—in spite of its handicaps.

Rockets fire John Egan

HOUSTON (AP) — The Houston Rockets of the National Basketball Association said today they are replacing head Coach John Egan with Tom Nissalke, who guided three American Basketball Association teams into the playoffs.

President and General Manager Ray Patterson, occasionally at odds with Egan, said he felt the change was designed to curb any further decline in the team's progress.

A year ago, the Rockets recorded their first .500 season ever at 41-41 and gained the playoffs. The past season the Rockets were 40-42 and missed the playoffs.

"John Egan was called on to step in four years ago when the team was not showing progress," Patterson said in prepared remarks. "He became a big factor in the upward swing of the Rockets which led to the playoffs a year ago. 4

Kings, Bruins begin new series tonight

BOSTON (AP) — The Boston Bruins and the Los Angeles Kings face off tonight in what amounts to a start of a three-game series in the National Hockey League quarterfinals for the Stanley Cup.

The best-of-seven series is even at two games apiece— both teams having split games here and in Los Angeles last week.

"We got what we wanted with a split out there in Los Angeles," said Boston Coach Don Cherry. "So we have regained our home-ice advantage."

A sixth game will be played in Los Angeles on Thursday, and a seventh, if necessary, back here Sunday.

The Bruins, who were down 2-1 in the series, evened it up Saturday with a 3-0 victory.

"That was the first time in quite a while we played the way we did when we had success during the season," said Jean Ratelle, who is leading the team in this series with four goals and two assists.

"It made a big difference that Brad (Park) played so well. Good defensemen like Brad and Dallas Smith can be very important in controlling strategy during a series like this."

Park, who recently had knee surgery and returned to the lineup for the series, had a hard practice Monday, but wouldn't comment on his condition.

"Just as long as we win, I feel 100 per cent," he said.

Cherry, who has been rotating Gilles Gilbert and Gerry Cheevers in goal during the series, plans to break the rotation and go again with Cheevers, who turned in Saturday's shutout.

Kings Coach Bob Pulford hasn't announced his goalie, but chances are he'll go with Gary Edwards, who beat the Bruins in overtime in game No. 2, and who beat the Bruins here last Dec. 23.

The early heat wave that hit New England apparently won't have any effect on the Boston Garden's playing surface. Norm Rosa, garden building superintendent, said he'll bring the temperature of the brine in the rink's freezing system down to about eight or nine degrees, compared with the 13 degrees used during the winter.

"We could even go down to six degrees if that becomes necessary," Rosa said.

Local baseball returns to full swing

By JIM McCONNELL
PB Staff Writer

Local college coaches will be happy to see their teams get back into full swing this week.

That was the opinion expressed at the weekly Progress Bulletin baseball luncheon at the Castaway Restaurant in Pomona Monday.

The locals saw little action last week due to the Easter break, but a full slate of games awaits this week, including the key clash between local SCIAC powers La Verne and Claremont-Mudd today at C-M.

Named as High School Player of the Week was Mark Schlesinger of Damien High. Schlesinger led the Spartans to the consolation title in last week's Pomona Elks Tourney, as he pitched eight and two-thirds innings of scoreless ball to win one game and save another and hit .353 in five tourney games. He was tabbed to the All-Tourney team.

Schlesinger was presented with a certificate by the Pomona Elks Lodge for his efforts.

Winning the college award was La Verne's Jim Vallone. The Leo lefty hurled a key 10-1 win over Claremont-Mudd two weeks ago, enabling La Verne to secure first place in the SCIAC standings. JC honors went to MSAC's Bob Veselic, who fanned 15 in a 11-2 win over Orange Coast two weeks ago and blanked L.A. Harbor 5-0 last week.

The college and JC awards covered a two-week period due to the lull in action during Easter week.

Quoting the coaches:

BEN HINES, La Verne — "We've had nine days off going into our game with Claremont-Mudd. I don't think the layoff will hurt our pitching but our hitting might be a little off.

"We had workouts last Friday and Saturday and Vallone, Fernie Tarin and Paul McGuire threw well in an inter-squad scrimmage. Vallone will start the Claremont-Mudd game, he did an outstanding job against them two weeks ago.

"I think that Claremont-Mudd should have the momentum going into the game, as they beat nationally-ranked Grand Canyon two out of three and made a good comeback to beat us in the second game two weeks ago. They also have an edge since the game is at there place.

"Tim Burzette has now hit in 23 straight games, he has been remarkably consistent. John Laubhan has also been a pleasant surprise."

BILL ARCE, Claremont-Mudd — "We were pleased with our 6-5 win over La Verne two weeks ago, and other developments in the league. Right now it looks like we have a real good chance at second in our league is we can't overhaul La Verne.

"We were snowed out, literally, in Phoenix on Friday. We beat them on Thursday and split a twinbill with them on Saturday. They are ranked third in the country in NAIA but I really didn't think they were that good."

BOB WAGNER, Cal Poly Pitching Coach — "Coach Scolinos couldn't be here today since we have a double-header with U. of San Diego.

"We are hitting .304 as a team now after our four games last week. Ken Hellyer had nine hits in 16 at bats last week and is now hitting .367. Alex Torres and Kevin Jenkins are among the nation's leaders in doubles. Torres has 16 and Jenkins 12.

Cavs get Pierce back

By JIM McCONNELL
PB Staff Writer

There's bad news and good news for Montclair High on the San Antonio League baseball scene.

The bad news: no less than five teams are breathing down the Cavaliers' neck as the SAL race enters its final six games.

The good news: Ace hurler Don Pierce is expected to return to the starting rotation this week.

The Cavs were atop the SAL standings with a 4-1 record and a one-game lead when Pierce was sidelined with an injury to his left elbow, but Montclair did not lose any of that lead in Pierce's absence.

Coach Tom McFadden's crew will take a 6-2 league record into Wednesday's match with Upland (5-3). That game, the feature tilt in Wednesday's SAL slate, will be played at Upland's Memorial Park starting at 3:15 p.m.

With Pierce on the hill, the Cavs bombed Upland 10-3 the first time around. Either the senior lefty or righthander Rich LaBarge figures to get the call this time around at Upland. Stan Smith is the likely hill choice of Scot mentor Bob Garvin.

Another key SAL matchup has Claremont (5-3) at Garey (4-3-1). The Wolfpack downed Montclair in its last league outing, while Garey is coming off some impressive showings in the Pomona Elks Tourney.

Brad Kirkendall, who fanned 16 against Montclair in his last start, is the probable starter for Claremont. Garey coach Monse Estrada is expected to go with his ace Cregg Handy.

Pomona, also 5-3, will be traveling to Damien. The Devils had best not be misled by the Spartans' 3-4-1 league mark. Damien copped the Pomona Elks Tourney consolation title and appears to have its pitching problems settled. Todd Bell and Richard Bustos both pitched well in the tourney for Spartan coach Matt Kolodge, and Kolodge "discovered" a third effective hurler in junior Mark Schlesinger.

In contrast, the Pomona pitching is hurting. Both the Devils top hurlers, Jackie Phillips and Mike Keegan, are sporting sore arms. If neither can go to the hill Wednesday at Damien, Mark Soto will probably be coach Jay Craven's choice. Bell is the likely Spartan starter.

The other SAL match Wednesday has Chino (2-6) hosting Ganesha (1-7). Not much is at stake in that one other than pride. Joe Pickens is the likely starter for the Cowboys, vs. Joe Jones of the Giants.

The chase is just as hectic in the Hacienda League.

Bonita had a comfortable lead in the standings until falling to both Alta Loma and Gladstone two weeks back. The Bearcats also lost two of three in the Elks Tourney, as their offense has yet to jell.

The 'Cats (7-2) host San Dimas (5-4) Wednesday in a rivalry which has produced its share of upsets. A win for the Saints would really throw the H.L. race into a tizzy, with only four games remaining on the league slate after Wednesday.

Bonita mentor Dick Salomon will be sending his ace, Bill Bumstead, to the hill. San Dimas coach Doyle Lyman will counter with either Curt Burkhart or Dennis Wetzel.

While Bonita and San Dimas fight it out, Walnut (6-3) will be at Sierra Vista (3-6) and Alta Loma (6-3) will host Ontario (3-6). All H.L. games will start at 3:15 p.m. Wednesday.

Walnut, hoping to keep pace with Bonita, is coming off a good showing in the Elks Tourney, where the Mustangs upset defending tourney champ Chaffey. Senior Butch Long figures to get the starting call against Sierra Vista.

Alta Loma's Steve Cuccia will go against Ontario. The Braves also looked sharp in Elks play and appear ready for the stretch run. Ontario will counter with Mike Breslin.

NEW ADDITION AT MSAC — Jay Ambrose, manager of the Sears store in Pomona, presents one of six pictures representing great moments in U.S. Olympic history to the MSAC Relays Hall of Fame. Presentation was made at Relays kickoff banquet.

Relays tickets remain on sale

Advance sale tickets for the 18th annual Mt. San Antonio Relays are still on sale for this weekend's three-day track and field spectacular at Mt. San Antonio College's Memorial Stadium in Walnut.

Avoiding inflation, the Relays has still kept the price down on the three-day reserved seat ticket. Good for any or all three days of the meet, the tickets will be on sale for only $5 thru Thursday. Starting Friday, reserved seat tickets good only for one day can be purchased at the gate.

Thursday will also be the last day to purchase the Relays' special family plan ticket which admits two adults and two children to all three days of the meet for only $12.

Tickets will be available all week at the college's ASB business office and at the stadium starting Friday.

Friday's competition starts at 8:30 a.m. and continues until 8:30 p.m. Saturday will have an 8:30 starting time also but the top seeded invitational division events won't begin until 12 noon. Saturday's final event will be at 4:50 p.m.

Sunday's competition will continue from 8:30 a.m. until 2 p.m.

Single day reserved seat ticket prices are as follows: Friday: $3 for adults, $2 for students, and $1 for children; Saturday: $4 for adults, $2 for students,and $1 for children; Sunday: $3 for adults, $2 for students, and $1 for children.

Spikers run day early

After a week off for Easter vacation, San Antonio League trackmen will resume action in three dual meets Wednesday.

Ganesha will be at Upland, Montclair will visit Pomona and Claremont will host Damien, all at 3:15 p.m. The SAL meets will be held Wednesday this week rather than Thursday because athletes from the teams will be competing at the Mt. San Antonio Relays Friday.

Garey's meet at Chino, originally set for Wednesday, has been postponed until next Tuesday, Arpil 27, because Chino High is not in session this week.

The Ganesha-Upland meet would appear to be the most competitive of Wednesday's encounters since Pomona (5-0) should demolish Montclair (1-4) and Claremont (2-3) should have no trouble with Damien (0-5).

The Giants and the Highlanders, however, both stand at 3-2 and have lost only to frontrunners Pomona and Garey. So that meet should decide third place.

Ganesha boasts two top CIF prospects in Lloyd Jones and Floyd Eddings. Jones became the Southern Section's leading high hurdler two weeks ago with a time of 14.1 seconds, and ranks third among CIF low hurdlers.

Eddings has recorded a 9.6 in the 100 and is also a threat in the 220 and the long jump.

Upland is led by Casey Cox, the valley's leading half-miler, who has a best of 1:58.0. The Scots are very strong in the pole vault led by Bob Dalquest (13-6), and the two mile, with Roger Innes (9:32.6).

The Pomona-Montclair meet will offer a matchup between Barry Boettcher of the Red Devils and Mike Roza of the Cavaliers, two of the SAL's premier distance runners.

Sports briefs

MOSCOW, Idaho (AP) — Two high school teammates from LaCanada, Calif., are the first players to sign national basketball letters of intent for the University of Idaho.

Coach Jim Jarvis said the new Vandal players will be 6-foot-4 guard Lester Walker and 6-foot-7 forward Jerry Lile. They are co-captains of the St. Francis High School Knights.

NEW YORK (AP) — Forward Julius Erving of the New York Nets was named the American Basketball Association's Most Valuable Player for a record third straight time Monday.

Erving, 6-foot-7, 200 pounds, received 32 of 35 votes cast by members of the media in the ABA's seven cities. Denver rookie David Thompson, teammate Bobby Jones and James Silas of San Antonio picked up one vote each.

Dr. J averaged 29.3 points a game during the regular season to win his third scoring championship in the past four years, and he placed among the ABA leaders in seven of the eight statistical categories.

The 26-year-old star was fifth in rebounds with 11.01 a game, eighth in two-point field goal accuracy, .517 per cent, seventh in three-point accuracy, .330, seventh in assists, 5.04, seventh in blocked shots, 1.9 , and third in steals, 2.46 per game.

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Philadelphia's Mike Schmidt, who tied a major league record by hitting four straight home runs last Saturday, was named the National League's first baseball player of the week for 1976.

Schmidt is only the fourth player in baseball history to hit four conscutive homers in a major league game. Boston's Bob Lowe in 1894, Lou Gehrig of the Yankees in 1932 and Rocky Olavito of Cleveland in 1959 are the others.

Schmidt has won the National League home run title for the past two seasons, and is off to another fast start with six homers in the Philies' first six games.

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Veterans Gary Bettenhausen and George Snider are among the latest drivers nominated for the Indianapolis 500-mile race May 30.

Eight more entries received Monday boosted the total to 65. Officials said four or five more are expected, postmarked before the deadline last Thursday midnight.

Garhardt Racers of Fresno, Calif., entered Eagle-Offenhausers for Bettenhausen and rookie Eddie Miller. Cooperstate Racing, Phoenix, also entered an Eagle with no driver named.

Leader Cards, Inc., Milwaukee, entered three Eagles, naming Snider and Tom Bigelow to drive two of them.

Other entries were by Rasmussen Racing, Indianapolis, driver Eldon Rasmussen, and a third car by Vatis Enterprises, New York, with no driver named.

NEW YORK (AP) — The late Tommy Armour, known as the "Silver Scot," and Mickey Wright, winner of a record 82 women's tour events, were named Monday to the World Golf Hall of Fame.

They will be enshrined Sept. 8 in ceremonies at the Hall of Fame in Pinehurst, N.C.

Armour and Miss Wright were chosen by a vote of the Golf Writers Association of America, each receiving the 75 per cent of the GWAA ballots needed for election.

MONTE CARLO — Argentina's Guillermo Vilas won the men's singles title of the Monaco International Tennis Tournament by defeating Poland's Wojtek Fibak 6-1, 6-1, 6-4.

DENVER — Unseeded Charles Pasarell downed Jeff Borowiak 2-6, 7-6, 6-3 to win an opening round match in the Denver World Championship Tennis Tournament.

BOSTON — Jack Fultz of Georgetown University won the 80th annual Boston Marathon, crossing the finish line in 2 hours 20 minutes 19 seconds.

NEW YORK — Snoozer, $14.20, came on in the stretch to take the $25,000 North South Gal Purse at Aqueduct by one-half length over Melody Maid.

PAWTUCKET, R.I. — Cruise Chief, $3, scored by a neck over t Never Happened in the feature at Narragansett Park.

Pitchers earn weekly honors

"We play at Loyola Tuesday (today) and then host Cal Poly SLO Friday and Saturday in a conference series. We are two games back of Northridge right now entering the second round of league play."

ART MAZMANIAN, MSAC — "We have really done well the past couple weeks. We beat Orange Coast, L.A. City, Rio Hondo and L.A. Harbor.

"We have a big game Tuesday (today) down in San Diego against San Diego Mesa. They will start their ace Billy Harris, we will go with Bob Veselic. Mesa is a heck of a team, I think they are very underrated. We host Santa Ana on Thursday, and that will finish the second round of conference games. We start the third round at Grossmont on Saturday.

"We are apprehensive about the layoff. We lost three games due to the rain and all three teams declined to make the games up, which really hurts. Our pitching rotation is fouled up due to the rain but we will stay with Veselic against Mesa."

MATT KOLODGE, Damien High — "Mark (Schlesinger) really came through for us in the tourney. We will pitch him now in our regular rotation, in fact he will start for us Wednesday against Pomona.

"I think the past couple weeks we have shown we can play with anybody in our league. If we beat Pomona Wednesday and Montclair Friday, we would really throw the league race into chaos.

"The SAL is a really well-balanced. No team has had consistently dominating pitching, but I think we have a shot at it if we continue to play well. With Mark, Todd Bell and sophomore Richard Bustos, we have three proven pitchers to use in the stretch drive."

Openings available for fitness activity

Openings are still available for registration with the Chino Recreation Department's bicentennial fitness decathlon. The decathlon is co-sponsored with the Chino Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints and is designed to provide fun, fitness activities, and competition for citizens of all ages.

Ten events are scheduled to take place in April and lasting through July with activities taking place on alternate weekends allowing for the fitness levels of participants to increase throughout the competition.

Events are scheduled in: swimming, badminton, basketball, volleyball, softball, table tennis, football, tennis, bicycling, and track. These will allow those who are not highly skilled to participate in a equal basis with all other competitors.

Interested persons should contact the Recreation Dept. for further information. The department phone number is 627-7344.

Nogales wrestler earns trip to Japan

Randy Ashenbrenner, a Nogales High middleweight wrestling champ with a 23-5 record for the 1975-1976 season, has been selected to participate in a wrestling exchange program to Japan sponsored by the Amateur Athletic Union.

A junior at Nogales, Ashenbrenner is scheduled to depart for Japan on a three-week tour of exhibitions in August. He has received training from Nogales coach Larry Watanabe, who was rated co-coach of the year by the Foothill Wrestling Association and who was a member of the first exchange team to Japan in 1970.

Ashenbrenner is a varsity wrestling team member along with his brothers Tony and Danny, a senior and sophomore, respectively.

The Nogales wrestling team has placed first in the Montview League in nine out of the last 10 years.

Soviet, U.S. clash at Cal State L.A.

LOS ANGELES — A preview into the women's basketball championship of the Olympic Games in Montreal is what the experts are calling Saturday nights's battle between the United States National Team and the Soviet Union's Olumpic Team at Cal State Los Angeles.

Tip-off time for the international classic is set for 8 p.m. in the Campus Gymnasium.

Leading the United States, coached by this year's Olympic coach Billie Moore of Fullerton State, will be local All-American's Ann Meyers (5-9) of UCLA and Nancy Dunkle of Fullerton State. Also included on the roster will be AIAW-Kodak All-American Luisa Harris (6-2) of National Champion Delta State, considered the top woman basketball player in the nation.

The United States will be up against a Soviet Union Olympic Team which has not lost a game in international competition in 5 years. Pacing the Soviets will be Uliana Semanova who rises 7-foot-2. Semanova and her teammates will also have the advantage of playing together for several years.

The United States has made great strides in bridging the experience gap, however, by playing together in a number of games which included a recent undefeated tour of Taiwan.

The entire United States roster includes Rita Easterling of Mississippi College, Meyers of UCLA, Sue Rojcewicz and Mary Anne O'Connor of Southern Connecticut State, Pat Head of Tennessee, Dunkle of Fullerton State, Carolyn Buch and Cherri Rapp of Wayland Baptist, Harris of Delta State, Juliene Simpson of J.F.K., and Nancy Lieberman of Rockaway High School in New York.

Tickets will be sold at door. For more information, contact Cal State Los Angeles at 213-224-3216.

Cobra girls place in finals

Two members of the Quad Cities Cobras placed in the Southern California finals of the woman's 10,000 meters (6½ mile) run held at College of the Canyons in Valencia.

Diane Esslinger of Ontario finished second and Diane Stern of Montclair took third.

Unser's shot ends marathon

By Associated Press

With one wave of his wand, Del Unser made a baseball disappear and at the same time changed himself from a goat into a hero.

A misplay by the New York centerfielder allowed two St. Louis runs in the first inning, but he made up for it in the 17th with a home run that provided the Mets with a 4-3 victory Monday night.

"When you get into extra innings, there's no sense fooling around," said Unser, who pulverized a Mike Wallace fastball with two out to break up a marathon four-hour, 46-minute game.

The shot heard 'round Busch Stadium settled a dramatic battle which had been tied by the Cardinals in the seventh inning, some two hours before.

Unser went up to the plate with one thing in mind: "I was just thinking of swinging at the ball and swinging hard."

Wallace said later he was just thinking of one thing, too: Throwing a fastball on the first pitch to get ahead.

"He's the type of guy that wanted to get ahead," said Unser, who once played with Wallace on the Philadelphia Phillies. "If he had, he's got a good fork ball, and a good curve and he would have been tough to hit."

Extra-inning games are old hat between the Cardinals and Mets. Two years ago, they played a seven-hour, 25-inning affair at Shea Stadium, the longest night game in baseball history.

In the other National League games, the Houston Astros beat the Los Angeles Dodgers 8-3 and the Montreal Expos downed the Chicago Cubs 4-3. In the American League, the California Angeles belted the Baltimore Orioles 9-4; the Oakland A's tripped the Detroit Tigers 6-5 in 10 innings and the Boston Red Sox blanked the Minnesota Twins 2-0.

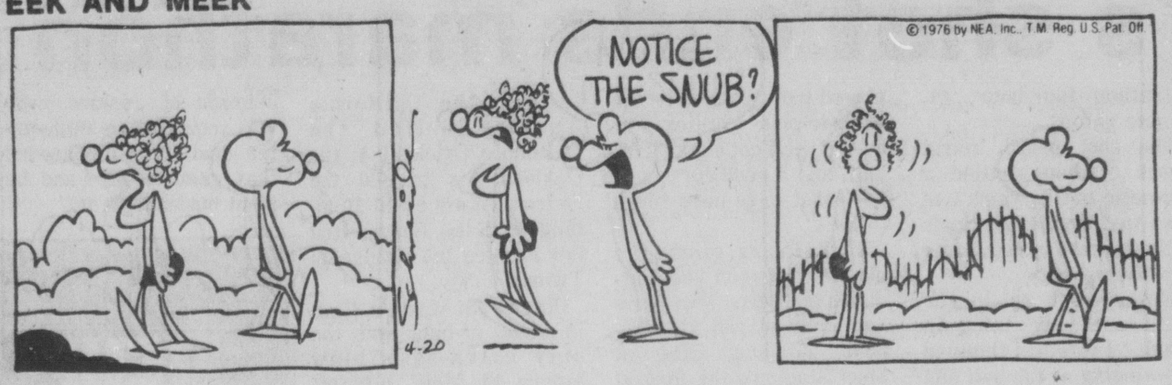

Unser's hit was his first in eight at-bats and the only extra-base blow among 18 Mets' hits off Wallace and five other Cardinal pitchers. Aided by a St. Louis error, New York wiped out a 2-0 St. Louis lead with a three-run burst in the second inning and protected that slim edge until Vic Harris and pinch-hitter Ron Fairly rifled doubles for the Cards off New York ace Tom Seaver.

Seaver then departed in the eighth, giving way to Skip Lockwood, who was followed to the mound by Ken Sanders and Bob Apodaca, 1-0, the winner.

A crowd held to 4,859 by bad weather watched the Cardinals take a lead in the first when Unser misjudged Reggie Smith's hard shot to center and let the ball get past him for a two-run double.

If you want to know how deep the ocean is, or who hit the most home runs in baseball, you can find out in an almanac (pronounced AWL muh nack).

An almanac is a book that contains many different kinds of information. Almanacs are usually published once a year. Most almanacs have a calendar and facts about governments, history, and geography.

Many almanacs also give figures on population, industry, and crops. They may also tell when the sun will rise and set or tides will rise and fall, as well as listing important events of the past, and many other useful and interesting facts.

One of the most famous of the early American almanacs was 'Poor Richard's Almanack', written by Benjamin Franklin.

In it was a calendar and the weather predictions for the year and poetry, amusing stories, and proverbs.

It was "Poor Richard" who said: "Early to bed, early to rise makes a man healthy, wealthy, and wise."

A World Almanac globe or other fine prize will be awarded to the first youngster sending in a question used here. Send your question and your age to Johnny Wonder, Box 1335 (DA), Santa Cruz, Ca 95061.

County welfare declines

LOS ANGELES (AP) — County officials say they hope it is the beginning of a trend that the number of welfare case-loads declined in February for the first time in five months.

The county Department of Public Social Services said welfare cases in February were down 11,463 persons from January, when 966,442 persons received assistance.

Department spokeswoman Barbara Hodge said the improvement was attributed partly to the decreased number of persons who are unemployed in the county.

She noted that caseloads normally increase in January because of seasonal layoffs by industry.

Kale served at dinner

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP) — About 70 members of a senior citizens' group at Calvin Christian Reformed Church recently sat down to a dinner in which the main dish resembled green mashed potatoes.

What they were eating was kale, a vegetable of the cabbage family.

It was the third annual kale dinner at the church, a custom initiated by Dr. Henry Piersma, a retired microbiologist and an elder in the church.

Dr. Piersma said he discovered the nutrition value of the vegetable when he was working with laboratory animals.

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS

Sealed proposals for: LEMON CREEK PARK RESTROOMS to be located in Lemon Creek Park in the City of Walnut will be received at the office of the City Clerk, City Hall 20550 E. Carrey Road, Walnut, California until 2:00 P.M., April 27, 1976 at which time they will be publicly opened and read aloud.

No bid shall be considered unless it is made on a proposal form furnished by CORWIN AND WAY and is made in accordance with the information contained in the drawings and specifications and pertinent contract documents prepared by CORWIN AND WAY, American Design Professionals, P.C., One West Mountain Street, Pasadena, California 91103.

Each bid must be accompanied by cash, certified or cashier's check or bidder's bond, made payable to the City of Walnut for an amount equal to at least ten percent (10%) of the amount bid, such guaranty to be forfeited should the bidder to whom the contract is awarded fail to enter into the contract. Plans, specifications, contracts and proposal forms may be obtained at the Office of the Architect, One West Mountain Street, Pasadena, California for a non-refundable fee of $5.00.

Pursuant to the provisions of Sections 1770-1777 of the Labor Code of the State of California, the City of Walnut has ascertained the general prevailing rate of wages and employer payments for health and welfare, vacations, pension and similar purposes in the City in which the work is to be done. This is on file in the Office of the City Clerk, 20550 E. Carrey Road, Walnut, California. Information relative to the employment of apprentices shall be obtained from the Director of the Department of Industrial Relations, who is the Administrative Officer of the California Apprenticeship Council. The Contractor shall forfeit as penalty to the City of Walnut, Twnety-five Dollars, ($25.00) for laborers, workmen, or mechanics employed for each calendar day or portion thereof, if such laborer, workman or mechanic is paid less than the general prevailing rate of wages herein referred to and stipulated for any work done under the proposed contract, by him, or by any subcontractor under him, in violation of the provisions of the Labor Code, and in particular, Sections 1770 to 1781 inclusive. Copies of all collective bargaining agreements relating to the work as set forth in the aforementioned Labor Code are on file and available for inspection in the Office of the Department of Industrial Relations, Division of Labor Statistics and Research.

The City Council reserves the right to reject any or all bids and to waive any irregularity or informality in any bid to the extent permitted by law.

Each bidder shall visit the site of the proposed work and fully acquaint himself with the conditions relative to construction, labor, plans, specifications and special provisions. Submission of the proposal shall be taken as conclusive evidence of this familiarity with job site and conditions relative thereto.
